STORM CAUSES HIGH DAMAGE, BOLT HITS MAN

Trees Blown Over, Lightning Strikes Mansfield Home, Bellville Store.

MERCURY IN SHARP DROP

Grocer Stunned By Shock as He Works In Store; Hail Strikes Shelby Area.

Severe wind and electrical storms which struck Richland county and other northcentral Ohio communities late yesterday ended the record May heat wave and left widespread damage across the state.

During the peak of the storm which struck from the west shortly after 4 p. m. yesterday, lightning damaged a Mansfield residence and slightly injured a Bellville store manager. Heavy rain flooded streets and basements in the west side of Mansfield.

Trees were blown down in the northern part of the county where a heavy hailstorm was reported Hail damage was slight and was confined mostly to the area southwest of Shelby.

Sweeping into the county in a cloud of dust, the storm brought .70 of an inch of rain to the Mansfield area and dropped the temperature from a record high 90 degrees for the date yesterday afternoon to a comfortable 58 last night.

The mercury continued to fall today and stood at 53 at 10 a. m. By noon it was back to 58 degrees. The forecast said it will be fair and cooler tonight and fair with moderate temperature Saturday.

Lightning struck a radio antenna into the home of C. R. Ladd, 593 Grant street, igniting some clothing and the floor in the attic. Firemen extinguished the blaze and only minor damage was reported.

Samuel Spayde, manager of the Bellville Kroger store, received a severe shock when lightning struck a power line nearby and followed the line into the store, and apparently struck the back of his neck, as it "jumped" from the wire. He soon recovered, however, and was able to resume work. The charge put the building's lights and electrical equipment out of order.

Before the storms blew the heat out of Ohio yesterday, record temperatures for May 22 were chalked up in every section of

WANTS DETAILS

Jenkins Asks Specific Data on Non-Defense Cut.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins (R.,O.) aiming at a billion dollar cut in non-defense spending, has demanded again that Secretary Morgenthau make specific recommendations on how the goal could be achieved.

Member of the tax-writing house ways and means committee, Jenkins declared in an interview that the secretary apparently had made no serious attempt to suggest economies as demanded in a recent letter by the Ohioan.

Morgenthau testified several weeks ago that he thought expenditures other than for defense might be reduced as much as a billion dollars.

Recover 14 Bodies In Mine Blast

(By Associated Press)

BICKNELL, Ind.—The bodies of 14 miners killed by an explosion in the Panhandle mine near here were brought to the surface today one by one.

Seventeen other men working on the same level emerged safely from the underground workings by a circuitious 2½ mile route after the explosion last night.

Most of the bodies were burned badly.

The dead: Charles W. Harrington, 47, of near Bicknell; E. R. Cole, 48, of Vincennes; James M. Smith, 65, of near Bicknell; Richard Smith, 41; Dewey Stinett; Maurice Taburiaux, 40; Floyd Harper, 30; Charles Osborn, 30; Charles Wright, 38; Wilbet Redmond, 24; Charles B. May, 50; F. M. Vincent, 47, and Arthur Gourdouze, 44, all of Bicknell and Virgil Sager, 30, Freelandville.

Jack Ogilvie of Bicknell, in charge of the mine rescue squad, expressed belief gas or a mixture of gas and dust become ignited in some manner.

The blast occurred 325 feet below the surface at 9:10 p. m. (Central Standard Time) last night, only an hour and 50 minutes before the mine was scheduled to close for the night. The men were loading coal at the time of the explosion.

Damage to workings was slight.

Robert English of Bicknell, who was at work on the same level about 2,000 feet away, said that the blast "felt just like a big puff of air. It deafened us for awhile. We couldn't even hear the cutting machine." Thirty-one men were in the mine when the blast occurred.

ASKS CITY TO AID TAX CASE

Hallabrin Offers Own Counsel To Help City Collect In Suit on Black Estate.

Michael Hallabrin, plaintiff in a taxpayer's suit involving the personal estate of the late Frank B. Black, today had called on city council to join him in his action to force the collection of back taxes he contends are due on the estate for the period from 1926 to 1932.

In a letter to council, Hallabrin asserted that the answer filed in the case in behalf of the city by Solicitor M. D. Ward "lacks the necessary construction and does not protect the interest of the city and its taxpayers."

Hallabrin then offered the services of his attorneys to the city free of charge if council will empower the attorneys "to save the enormous sum of

NYE SAYS LEND BILL BATTLE TO LOOK TAME

Vigorous Action Promised on Any Attempt To Repeal Present Law.

Senator Says President Once Liked Bill That 'Has Kept Us Out of War.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Condemning Secretaries Stimson and Knox for their sharp criticism of the neutrality act, senate opponents of administration foreign policy gave advance notice today that they would make a vigorous, last-ditch fight against any effort to repeal the present law.

"The fight against the administration's lease-lend bill will look like a pretty tame affair compared with what will ensue after any effort to repeal the neutrality act," said Senator Nye (R., N. D.)

Nye said that President Roosevelt had "praised the act at the time it was passed as a larger measure of security against our involvement in war." The act, he added, "has kept us out of this war so far despite the well-known impatience of the Knoxes and the Stimsons to get into war."

Stimson declared yesterday that the act violated "our most sacred and important tradition of foreign policy—freedom of the seas." Knox previously called the law a "terrible burden." Both said they were speaking as individuals.

Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), like Nye a leading opponent of the aid-to-Britain program, asserted that repeal of the act would mean sending American ships into war zones and that such a step would mean war.

100 MISSING

Pulp Cutters Believed Trying To Flee Forest Fires.

TORONTO, Ont. —(U.P.)— Nearly 100 pulp cutters were missing today as forest fires spread through Ontario woodlands and brush country, threatening several towns and destroying hundreds of square miles of valuable timber.

The pulp cutters, working south of McKirdy when flames approached their camp, were believed to have headed south toward Nipigon in an effort to escape. Forestry department officials said it was probable they would reach safety.

On one front of almost 50 miles from Hele to Nipigon three fires merged and swept on. Thousands of fire fighters sought to save menaced towns.

Church Purchases Old Scout Camp For Youth Outings

Camp Avery Hand, jr., camping ground for hundreds of scouts in the Johnny Appleseed area, located on U. S. Route 42 between Ashland and Mansfield, has been purchased by the Ohio Synod of the United Lutheran church in America, it was disclosed today.

The regular two-week summer camp session for Lutheran boys will be held at the camp in July instead of Camp Luboca, on Lake Erie. The Luther League of Ohio will equip and improve the property.

The 17-acre camp, which has been camping grounds of Richland, Ashland and Crawford county scouts for the past 15 years was purchased for $5,800, according to Floyd Dent, area executive. The camp was given to the Johnny Appleseed area

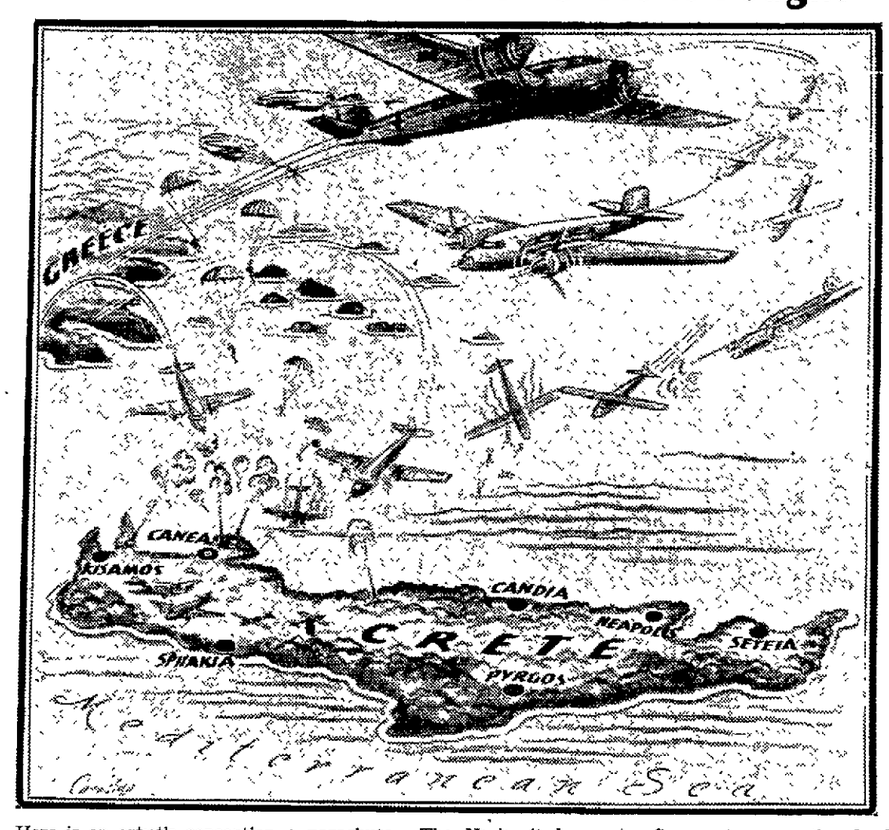
How Fantastic Battle of Crete Is Fought



Here is an artist's conception of the most fantastic battle of the current war—the battle for Crete, between British and Greek troops holding the islands, aided by the British navy, and air borne Germans, landing from transports and gliders and by parachute. The Nazis, it has been admitted, hold two key points on the island, and have complete air mastery over it, the British having been forced to withdraw their fighting planes for lack of airdromes. While Allied troops claim to be annihilating German troops as they land, the British navy thus far has successfully held off all attempts of the Germans and Italians to land troops from boats. As pointed out by Prime Minister Churchill, it is a battle to the death. Neither side has a chance to retreat.

INDICTS BIOFF

Browne Also Named By Grand Jury on Extortion Count.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — A federal grand jury today indicted William Bioff, convicted pander and business agent of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes (AFL), and George E. Browne, president of the union, on charges of extorting $550,000 from four motion picture companies.

The indictments, embracing three counts, charged that Bioff and Browne, had extored the $550,000 from 20th Century Fox, Loew's, Inc., Paramont Pictures, Inc., and Warner Brothers under threats to call a strike in the motion picture industry.

The indictments were handed up to Federal Judge Murray Hulbert and bench warrants were issued for the two union leaders immediately.

LOCKE PRESSES DIR WORK CASE

Goes To Columbus For State Opinion, Then Asks Ward For New Ruling.

Mayor William J. Locke announced today that he had asked City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., for a new ruling on the case of John Dir, whom Ward ruled earlier this week was illegally rehired by the mayor.

Locke said that he was asking the ruling on the basis of new information which he received from the State Public Employes' Retirement commission in a trip to Columbus Wednesday.

Ward said today that the mayor had spoken about a new decision but had not given him any information to consider. The solicitor had previously ruled that Dir, who was retired last December along with eight other city workers over 70 years of age, had been illegally re-appointed last month.

Ward gave his decision after City Auditor Paul L. Kelley had held up Dir's pay because he believed he had been hired in violation of the Public Employe retirement laws.

Kelley announced today that he was still withholding the worker's salary until he received definite word as to the legality of Dir's status.

The mayor said that the commission had informed him that Dir had withdrawn his contributions to the system and was therefore no longer under its jurisdiction. Locke said that the case was similar to that of S. E. LeMunyon, sewer superintendent. Kelley refused to pay LeMunyon's salary last year on the same grounds.

LeMunyon had withdrawn his contributions from the retirement system just before he left the employment of the state. He began work with the city over the 70-year retirement limit but the commission, after a conference with the mayor, ruled that LeMunyon was not under its jurisdiction.

Locke said that the commission told him that Dir was eligible to work for a temporary period of 90 days.

Mansfield Police Officer Turns In 99.6 Pistol Score

Patrolman Paul Martin, one of the Mansfield police department's leading pistol shots, yesterday turned in a 99.6 score on the Ohio Brotherhood of Police Officers pistol range on the Jacob Wolf farm off U. S. Route 30-S, one of the highest ever turned in on any F. B. I. pistol course.

Fellow officers pointed out that many persons have shot perfect scores but few on an official F. B. I. course. Covering the course requires more skill than the ordinary one. The marksman must shoot 50 shots in a relatively short period from various ranges, at difficult angles and at a small target.

Martin said that he could not tell which one of his 50 shots missed because he fired them at top speed to keep within the five minutes and 45 seconds alloted to complete the course.

Commissioners Ease Stand on WPA Household Aid Project

After voting several weeks ago to discontinue the county WPA housekeeping aid project June 30, two of the three Richland county commissioners said today they would be willing to discuss a plan with city officials for continuing the project on a share-the-cost basis.

WPA officials, meanwhile, have asked the city to sponsor the project which employs 69 persons with a $3,500 monthly payroll. Fred Miller, chairman of the council finance committee, said the committee would meet before the next council meeting June 2 to consider the request.

Commissioners who said they would be willing to consider a new financing plan were Chairman C. L. Mitchell of the board and Ray Hout. Guy Stewart, other member of the board, could not be reached for comment.

In view of the fact that a number of the employes on the project are older women who could not find jobs easily in private industry, Mitchell said he believed it might be more economical to continue the project on a revised basis. At least a part of the workers on the project would become relief cases if the project is discontinued, he pointed out.

Hout said the project is "heavily overloaded, but it might not be so bad if it employed from 15 to 20 needy persons."

Commissioners said the monthly cost to the county had been "considerably higher" than the $77 estimated by WPA. They said the monthly cost varied and they had no figures on the average cost per month.

Commissioners previously voted unanimously to drop the proj-

Germans Predicting Surrender By End of Week

BULLETIN

BERLIN —(INS)— Three more British destroyers today were reported sunk and two damaged by Stuka dive bombers in the Mediterranean during the third day's aerial attack on British naval units rushing to the aid of Crete.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Great Britain's Mediterranean fleet has been crippled in attempted defense of Crete and defeat of that island maye be announced by Sunday, usually competent officials in Berlin said today.

Toward the German public, the German government maintained strict silence concerning the Crete invasion. But foreign correspondents were told the island would fall in what would prove to be "one of the greatest disasters for Britain."

Of chief importance, spokesmen said, is the fact that an island, no matter how heavily defended—and England falls into this classification—is definitely vulnerable to blitzkrieg tactics.

In addition, the Wilhelmstrasse asserted, the Crete campaign will demonstrate that sea power is no match for Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's Luftwaffe.

The German high command itself has decided to say nothing about Crete until the island capitulates. Reliable reports said that some announcement would be issued on Sunday.

As in previous campaigns, the high command is determined to withhold any factual developments from the British government until the attack is over.

(Editor's Note—The Crete invasion marks the first time since the war began that no official communiques have been issued concerning operations. In Poland, Denmark, Norway, France, the Lowlands and Greece, the German public was informed the moment operations got under way.)

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, a spokesman said, is "feeling in the dark."

"He has been cut off from Crete since noon Thursday," he added. "This is proved by his statement in the house of commons yesterday which contained completely in-

Fierce Man-to-Man Fighting Rages Across Island

BULLETIN

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—German air-borne detachments both at Candia and Retimo have been accounted for in fierce hand-to-hand fighting and the situation now is satisfactory at both those places on the Nazi-invaded Island of Crete, the British general headquarters reported today.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A turn in Britain's favor in the furious battle to wipe out Nazi aerial invasion of Crete while British naval guns were shattering attempts to get sea-borne reinforcements to the invaders was indicated today in advices reaching London.

A report from Cairo military sources said that severe fighting still was in progress today around the Malemi airport near Suda bay, but that the trend at other invasion points on the northwest part of the island definitely was to Britain's advantage.

An authoritative source here said the situation today, the fourth since Nazi air transports, gliders and parachutes began pouring sky troops down on the Mediterranean island, was "certainly as satisfactory as it was 24 hours ago."

So long as the British navy can ward off a threatened invasion by sea, this source said, there is every reason to believe that the air-borne attack must fail and, so far, it has prevented any successful sea invasion.

All attempts to land forces on the island from the sea have failed, he declared flatly.

The greatest battle between air and seapower ever fought is probably now taking place off Crete, this source added. He acknowledged that some losses to warships were "inevitable," but called German claims exaggerated "as usual."

(The Germans have claimed four cruisers, several destroyers and a submarine were sent to the bottom, and hits scored on a battleship, two destroyers and a number of other vessels.

(The strength Britain has mustered for her sea defense of Crete was indicated by the Fascist editor, Virginio Gayda, who, without mentioning the island, reported at

LOST: Nazis Admit Loss of Famed Submarine Commander

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Lieut. Commdr. Guenther Prien, one of Germany's most famous submarine commanders, has failed to return from a submarine trip and must be presumed lost, the German high command said today.

Prien, who has been missing for some time, achieved fame in the early stages of the war when with his submarine he penetrated the British naval base at Scapa Flow and torpedoed the old British battleship Royal Oak.

(British quarters early this month said that Prien had been missing since April 13.)

Prien, 32, entered Scapa Flow on the night of Oct. 14, 1939, when he not only torpedoed the Royal Oak but struck at the British battle cruiser Repulse and escaped in the darkness without damage to his U-boat.

TALK: Darlan Says France To Keep Fleet and Colonies

(By Associated Press)

VICHY, France—Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan told the French people today that Adolf Hitler had not asked France for her fleet in current negotiations and declared firmly: "I will never hand it over."

Nor has Hitler asked for colonial concessions, said the vice premier.

"The chancellor did not ask me to hand over our fleet to him," Darlan asserted in a broadcast. "Everyone knows—and the English better than anyone—that I will never hand it over.

"The chancellor did not ask me for any colonial territory. He did not ask me to declare war on England.

"Why has he acted so?

"Germany began the war alone and judges herself able to end it alone against no matter what coalition.

"On the result of negotiations in course," Darlan asserted, "directly depends the future of France.

"It is necessary for her to choose between life and death. The marshal and government have chosen life."

He emphasized that "in June, 1940, the victor could have refused an armistice, beaten us and wiped France off the map of the world—but he did not do it."

Now, Darlan said, "in May, 1941, the victor has agreed to negotiate with the French government."

The vice premier said he had gone to Berchtesgaden to confer with Adolf Hitler at the fuehrer's request, but said that France "freely chooses the road which she has taken."

"At no moment in the conversations (with Hitler) was there a question of France abandoning in any way her sovereignty," he said emphatically.

Darlan told the French people their duty was "clearly traced":

BRITISH REPORT TIDE OF BATTLE TURNS IN CRETE

Tell of Fierce Fighting as Fleet Keeps Off Troops Seeking To Land.

least five big British battleships, two aircraft carriers and undetermined numbers of cruisers and destroyers in the battle.)

The 30-boat Axis convoy which Prime Minister Churchill yesterday told the house of commons had been engaged by British naval forces was said to have sustained damages and Italian ships were reported seen picking up survivors.

The navy, however, was acknowledged to be facing a tough proposition because it must wage a ceaseless fight close to hostile shore bases in the face of constant air attacks.

Furthermore, one source said, the Germans are using powerful formations of dive-bombers and the combination of heavy air attacks and confined waters in which the battle is being fought has kept the navy from chasing its foe back to its own shores.

German dive-bombers attacking the fleet were said to have suffered heavily from anti-aircraft fire and it was reiterated that there doubtlessly has been heavy slaughter among Germans landed on Crete from the air.

London informants emphasized that the navy would hold nothing back to prevent sea-borne reinforcements, guns, tanks and ammunition reaching the Germans who are described as needing them.

The battle, raging in undiminished fury, thus appeared to be resolving itself into a showdown between Britain's might afloat and Germany's air supremacy—factors on which, some military experts believe, the outcome of the whole war may be determined.

Fighting on the island iself was described as intensely bitter and unlike anything that has gone before in the war, with a hundred separate engagements raging simultaneously.

"There are no lines of communication or supply, no front line or reserve positions," declared one military source. "It is a case of every man for himself."

Main centers of fighting, however, apparently were at the port of Candia near the center of the island, and Malemi airport, further west, both of which the Germans admittedly have occupied.

The British were reported counter-attacking at both points in an attempt to dislodge the invaders.

Casualties among German parachute troops have been high, authoritative sources declared.

The Germans were reported, however, to be hurling more and more troops into the fray. Transport planes were said to be shuttling back and forth from the Greek mainland in a steady stream, bringing fresh men and supplies.

There no longer were any British fighter planes on Crete to oppose this movement, because of the lack of airport facilities, it was announced yesterday.

Many of the German air transports were reported to have cracked up in attempting to land on the pitted surface of Malemi airport—the only good air base on the island—which was said to be under constant fire by British artillery.

(Dispatches from Istanbul, Turkey, quoted high diplomatic sources as saying that German agents there had characterized the battle of Crete as the first step toward Nazi occupation of Suez—which they predicted within two months.

(The German agents were said to be predicting the British would be dislodged successively from Cyprus, Palestine and Egypt.)

of the senate foreign relations committee came a statement that he had not been approached by any administration spokesmen with suggestions for repeal of the neutrality law.

George then added somewhat cryptically that "upon careful examination, the belief is not without supporting conditions that the difficulty of England would not be wholly solved by American naval convoying.

"An American convoy system might benefit the British, certainly temporarily, but it is not the full, complete or final answer to the difficulties now facing the British empire."

Senator Taft (R., O.), who has opposed Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policies, said that "it is obvious that, so long as American ships can't go to Great Britain, the president cannot claim any right to convoy foreign vessels."

"If he wants to convoy," Taft asserted "he will have to repeal the act."

The neutrality act forbids American ships and citizens from venturing into combat zones designated by the president, and also bars American loans and credits (other than short term convenience credits) to belligerents. Originally it had forbidden sale of munitions to any belligerent, but this latter was repealed at the administration's request.

Reason for the sale, according to Dent, was that the facilities were not large enough to accommodate activities of the 1,400 Boy Scouts in the area.

The purchase funds will be used for the development of the new Camp Avery Hand, jr., in Springfield township, south of Ontario, Dent asserted.

The new camp will be ready for the Boy Scout summer camping period in July, Dent said.

Almost completed is a new headquarters and storage building, Dent said.

loading plant before Monday. Contractors had hoped to have the giant arsenal in production by July 1 and complete construction work Sept. 1.

Capt. Earl D. Payne, army public elations officer, earlier said operations would not be resumed until the site "is cleared of agitators."

In voiding badges of all workers, the Hunkin-Conkey Construction company said 7,300 laborers would be "re-employed" only through accredited AFL representatives, "whoever they may be." The remainder of the employes are classified as skilled workers and took no part in the strike.

The company did not explain why the badges of all employes were cancelled.

Only foremen and superintendents were allowed to pass 20 heavily-guarded gates around the reservation.

It was understood the company paid workers yesterday, one day ahead of schedule.

Declaring "the laborers on this job have taken matters into their own hands" in demands for wage increases from 65 to 90 cents an hour, Vice President S. E. Hunkin said it "is up to Washington to decide" who are the accredited representatives of the AFL.

Kenneth Statler, business agent for the hod carriers, builders and common laborers (AFL), termed the strike of some 5,000 of the laborers "100 per cent unauthorized." Officials of the union and company had agreed on a 10-day truce whereby the men would go back to their jobs pending negotiations, but yesterday the strikers refused to work. After idling around the grounds, they left last night.

Every Hunkin-Conkey employe was issued an identification badge upon being hired. A large guard force is maintained within the reservation and no worker is admitted without such credentials.

The present strike, which started Wednesday, is the second work stoppage to delay construction. An eight-hour walkout of AFL carpenters was settled two weeks ago with a 25-cent-an-hour pay boost to $1.37½.

In Youngstown the utility workers organizing committee (CIO) voted unanimously to grant its negotiating committee power to call a strike in the city water department if council does not meet wage demands.

Two other unions in the water department, the Independent Civil Service Employes association and the AFL unit, also are considering strike action.

The CIO union is asking wage boosts in 15 classifications, ranging from 55 cents an hour to 72½ for one group to from 80 cents to $1 for another.

Mayor William B Stagnola said a wage-raise proposal would be submitted to council Monday. The group rejected such a plan at a special meeting Wednesday

TURNS IN 99.6 PISTOL SCORE

Mansfield Police Officer Sets Record For F. B. I. Target Range.

Closest to Martin's new record was his own previous mark of 94.6, which he shot on the F. B. I. range last week. This is the fourth week the officers have been shooting on the new range. It was built last fall by the police brotherhood. Sessions are held every Thursday.

Last year Martin was adjudged champion of the Mansfield department when he shot a 98.4 score in an intra-department contest, but not on the F. B. I. course.

Average for the new range is lower than 85 but Martin always shoots well above the 90 mark.

Covering the course is a complicated task. Starting at 70 yards, the contestant moves up to 60, first five shots, reloads and runs ahead to the 50-yard range.

Here he fires 20 shots, five from a sitting position, another five from a prone position, and five each left and right handed around a barricade.

At the 25-yard mark, he fires another 15 shots, five sitting and repeats left and right hand shots The last ten shots are from the hip at seven yards.

The policemen shooting the course is given five minutes and 45 seconds to complete the 50 shots from the correct positions. Any shots fired after the time limit are scored as misses the state. Highest reported was 94 at Youngstown, all-time high for the date in that city.

The score is figured from a silhouette target which represents the chest of a man. A perfect shot gives two points, while others are given graduated credit.

Another mark was set in Columbus where the reading was 93.3 degrees. Cleveland's 90 degrees broke the record there.

Storms caused heavy damage at Oberlin where lightning blew out two large generators in the municipal light plant and left the village in darkness for several hours last night. Streets were flooded and heavy wind damage was reported at Youngstown.

The wind reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour across northern Ohio, uprooting trees, damaging power lines, and littering streets with tree branches. The dust which clouded skies ahead of the storm was believed to have come from Western Ohio fields which dry weather had left as dry as powder.

The rain alleviate drought conditions in northern Ohio, but the situation remained serious in southern counties of the state where rainfall was light. Farm experts at Columbus reported a rainfall deficiency of 55.9 per cent for the first four months of the year, adding that it will be hard to make up this summer unless precipitation is unusually heavy.

accurate information. He is obviously no longer in touch with events."

German estimates say that between two and three British divisions, totalling a minimum of 30,000 men, are in Crete. Their capture is held to be inescapable, while two Greek division under King George II also face surrender or annihilation.

Since Wednesday, according to Berlin information, all important air fields in Crete are held by the Germans, who are also firmly emplaced at strategic points on the island.

The last phase of the fighting began with the successful arrival of convoyed German ships with reinforcements and heavy guns despite severe battering by the British fleet. The guns will be used to blast out British artillery nestled at various defense points.

The British were reported to have assembled all their spare naval units in the Mediterranean in a desperate effort to shatter German sea contact and choke off supplies. This effort has failed, it was said, as a result of which the royal navy has suffered one of the most staggering blows of the war.

"The British Mediterranean fleet is crippled so badly the entire British defenses in the near east will be affected," a spokesman asserted.

British Sub Sinks Troop Ship, Tanker

LONDON—(AP)—British submarines have torpedoed and sunk a 9,000-ton troop ship and a 7,000-ton tanker trying to reach Axis forces in Libya, the admiralty reported today, and probably sank an Italian destroyer.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

ASKS CITY TO AID TAX CASE

Hallabrin Offers Own Counsel To Help City Collect In Suit on Black Estate.

$200,000" which he contends is the amount of personal taxes due from the Black estate.

"It would be a shame for the City of Mansfield if this case is lost, especially when it would not cost the city a penny to bring proof, and I want justice in behalf of the city and its taxpayers," Hallabrin said in his letter.

The tax action, started about three years ago by Hallabrin, was taken to the Ohio Supreme court which ruled last March that the immunity section of the intangible tax law, permitting certain property owners to escape payment of personal taxes from 1926 to 1932, was constitutional.

The immunity clause was written into the records in an attempt to encourage the filing of full personal returns after 1932 without danger of penalty for provious failures to list all personal property.

The supreme court's decision barred county officials from further attempts to assess and collect personal taxes for the six-year period from estates which had been granted an immunity certificate. The Black estate had a certificate.

Attys. Joseph A. Bayer, Mansfield, and Hart, McHenry and Jones of Canton, representing Hallabrin, then contended that an audit of a part of the Black estate had been completed before the supreme court handed down its decision and argued that the court's action did not apply to action already taken.

Whether the Richland county auditor and treasurer can go ahead and make assessments and collections now hinges on the decision of Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who has been qualified by the district appeals court to conduct further hearings in the case.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1941.

Life grows still more overwhelming as camera men become "cinematographers."

There are more nickels in circulation than any other United States coin—if deposit in slot machines can be termed "circulation."

Not that anybody wants to justify this "spurlos versenkt" business—but really, doesn't anybody who names a ship "Zamzam" deserve what he gets?

A Spur to Our Aid Effort

DESPITE the announced British determination to hang on to Crete, as well as other middle eastern and Egyptian vantage points, current developments in the war point to the grave consequence of the allied forces there in the face of Hitler's violent "vertical" attack.

Perhaps the loss of Crete itself would not be a major reversal for the allies—not, at least, as grave as the loss of Greece and Yugoslavia was.

But it does point to one thing—that in equipment the British are far inferior yet to the Axis. In naval strength the story is different, for there Britain is more than holding her own in the Mediterranean. But in land fighting there, Germany is far superior to the British.

Open admission of that came yesterday when the British withdrew their airmen from Crete. They had planes, they said, but no airdromes. In almost the same breath, they admitted that their airmen were outnumbered by 20 to 1. Thus the Germans, by their numerical advantage in planes, have taken complete control of their air over Crete and have rendered the defense of the island by British and Greeks doubly difficult, if not eventually impossible.

This country, pledged to give Britain the supplies it needs to overcome the Axis, must get from the Crete episode a sharper realization of how great our task is—and how far we have yet to go.

And as the British, waiting for our material aid, lose battle after battle for not having it, we ought to make up our minds to hurry even more than we have been hurrying—lest we be, as democratic nations have been so often in this war—too late.

Economy With Words

SENATOR HAYDEN of Arizona has an idea for economy which appeals to citizens "back home" in his own state and in all the 47 others. He pointed out the other day the increased cost of printing the Congressional Record. It had risen from $981,000 in the 75th Congress to $1,795,000 in the 76th. He attributed the increase to abuse of the privilege of putting "extensions of remarks" into the Record.

It costs $45 a page to print the Record. Extended remarks rarely run less than two pages in length and often far more. Clearly a curtailment of wordage is in order.

The joint Committee on Printing, said Senator Hayden, had decreed that hereafter, when any member asked for unanimous consent to extend his remarks, he would have to announce at the same time exactly how much it would add to the cost of the Record. Either the total would shock him so much that he wouldn't ask for exension or it would shock his colleagues so much that they would not give the requested consent.

Grateful voters and taxpayers will greet this suggestion with unstinted approval.

Sails for Our Defense

THE "BEAR," 70-year-old barkentine which was the flagship of the latest Byrd Antarctic expedition, is a strange contrast to a modern naval vessel. Yet it is said that the "Bear" is going into the navy and will perform some sort of service for the government.

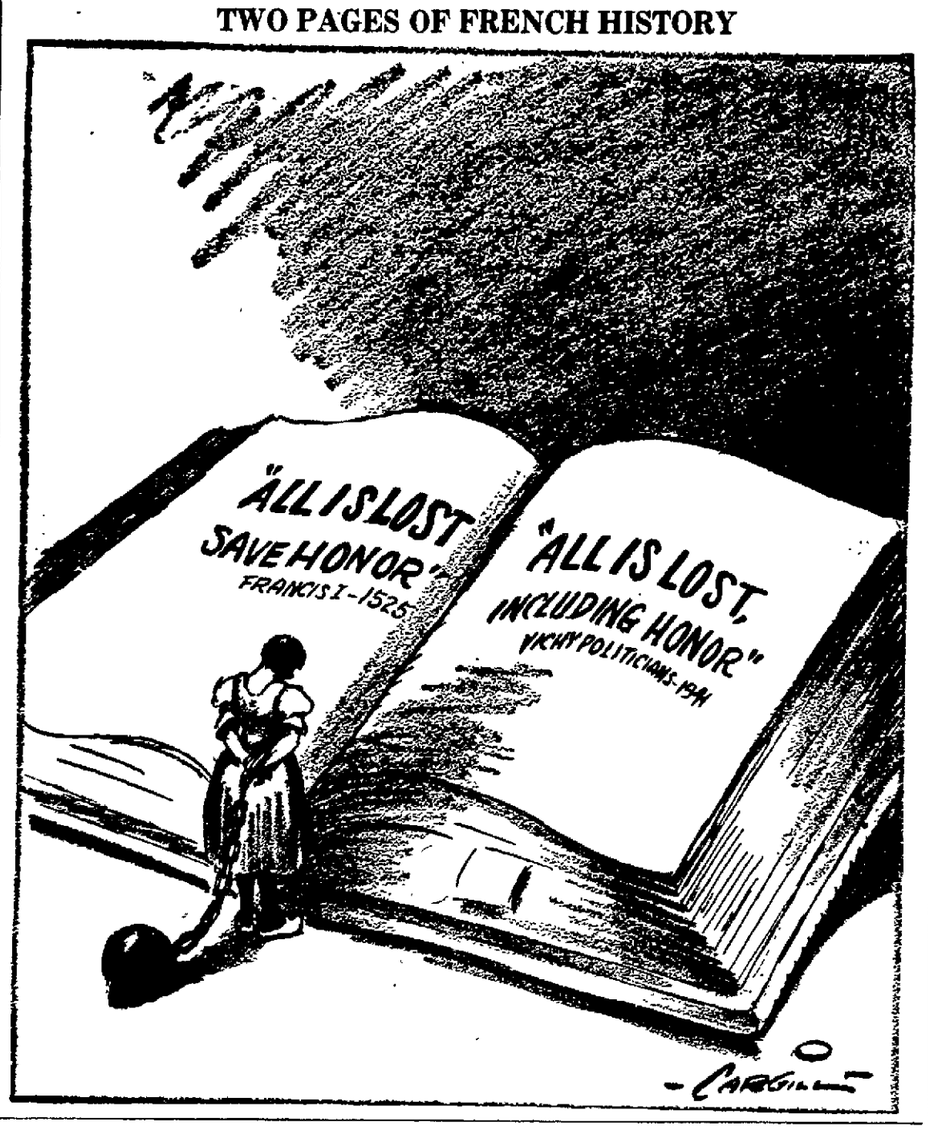
Almost as soon as it docked in Boston the other day, and its explorer-passengers had got themselves and their belongings off, shipfitters swarmed aboard and began to do things to the boat. The navy authorities will not say what the nature of the vessel's new role is to be, but there are guesses that it may have some part in the Greenland patrol.

According to Admiral Byrd, the "Bear" would be invaluable for such work. Its combination of engine power and auxiliary sails is important for rugged polar waters. Many a lover of the sea will be glad that such a ship has a job to do in national defense.

Quiet Scottish Farmers

ROBERT BURNS' cotter never had such a Saturday night as David McLean, but the latter seems to be equally worthy of the poet's praise. Since the landing on his fields of Rudolf Hess, cotter McLean has had many offers for speaking engagements and movie contracts. He says he'll stick to his job and "just grow food for Britain."

TWO PAGES OF FRENCH HISTORY



South American Trade Jumps

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—United States imports from the South American countries have zoomed as a result of the war, so that many of them now actually have favorable balances of trade against Uncle Sam.

The importance of this is tremendous, because the chief difficulty of expanding inter-American trade has always been that South America wanted to buy lots of our products, especially automobiles, refrigerators and other manufactured goods, but found it very difficult to sell us anything. We not only produced so many competitive articles, which aroused clamor for tariff protection by our producers, but there is the little episode of the pure food regulation, which not only kept out Argentine meat but gave it a black eye before the world.

As evidence of the recent spurt we bought from Argentina, in the first quarter of 1941, a total of $35,512,000 worth of goods. Yet in the whole year 1940, though the war was in progress during that entire year, we bought only $83,301,000.

From Uruguay in the first quarter of 1941 we bought $16,797,000 worth of good. In the whole year 1940 we bought only $17,629,000.

That's only half the picture of the improved financial position of the South American countries as a result of the war, if we take only trade with the United States into consideration.

In the first quarter of 1941 we sold Argentina $16,923,000 worth of goods. This was a big drop, as in the full year 1940 we sold her $106,877,000. With Uruguay we about held our own, selling her $1,998,000 in the first quarter of 1941, as against $11,275,000 in the full year of 1940.

Reason for the drop in our exports to Argentina was the rigid Argentine exchange and import control in the early months of 1941. This also explains why our exports to Uruguay did not suffer, for Uruguay has materially liberalized her exchange and import control.

With this improved situation, from the South American standpoint, the door is now opened to a real trade agreement with these two countries, and one is now expected very shortly.

The administration is very anxious to take advantage of the present war-given opportunity. Congress has voted virtually all the money wanted by Jesse Jones, in his capacity as the greatest lender of all time, for the purpose of making sure that the United States buys all the exports that Latin America wants to sell.

Part of the object is military, part of it is a looking forward to a trade war after armed conflict ceases.

Strained as she is, Japan is sending a ship loaded with all sorts of sample products to South America right now. Germany is ready to resume her old barter program with our southern neighbors, and has done her best to keep her connections despite the blockade, even to the extent of sending a "cargo of airplanes" to South America recently. The "cargo of airplanes" turned out to be one plane, but the gesture was there.

Leaving out the huge German racial groups in the South American countries, most of the people would rather trade with the United States. The governments, especially, found that the barter system did not work as much to their advantage as had at first appeared. But then there were other inducements, notably the resentment in Argentina over our slurs on the quality and healthfulness of her meat.

Uncle Sam now hopes for an era of good feeling toward him from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn.

A Taste of Freedom

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOUNG JIM, who graduated from high school last year, is still kicking around the house, wondering what to do. Yes, he's done chores. Held a fairly decent job through the Christmas rush. Is "willing to take anything."

"But what's it all getting me?" complains young Jim. "I want to be something, get somewhere. I 'spose in time I'll be drafted. But I'm only 18; how about the time till then? And what'll I have to come back to if I don't learn some trade or profession now? But what chance has any fellow got to do that, except the rich ones who can go to college? Industry doesn't want kids like me. The stores don't want me either because I haven't got any experience. Everywhere I go, there's the same answer. Nobody will give me a start!"

Young Alice, who will graduate this June, is in much the same fix. Alice took a business course, although she much preferred interior decoration. Made a fine record, is swift, accurate and reliable.

"Yes, but what will it buy me," mourns Alice. "Good stenos are a drug on the market. I am up against hundreds of older and more skillful women who are willing to do my job at half the price. Besides, I don't really know whether I want to go into stenography for keeps. But I have no chance to try anything else. No kid has, nowadays. Who said this was a free land anyway?"

I've no use for youngsters who whine as an alibi for their own laziness. But here are two obviously stalwart young Americans who claim that the modern kid, however ambitious, has no chance to mold his own fate. That's a pretty stiff indictment. Whether we like to admit it or not, we've built up systems and controls in this country which are as repressive as anything Germany can boast, and as tough on young ambition.

Some day labor and industry will be looking for new blood to carry on the work of building America—then what? Who'll take over? And, in the meantime, what are Jim and Alice to do? Swipe automobiles? Fill juke joints? Isn't it time someone wondered?

Wherefore I'm handing my shiniest wreath to Mr. Robert J. Glenn, manager of a New York hotel. For Mr. Glenn is sold on the idea that Kids Need A Break. A lot of us say the same thing but we don't get around to doing it. But Mr. Glenn did it. Came National Boys and Girls Week, and instead of Just Talking, Manager Glenn gave three youngsters temporary jobs on his staff.

Leo Robotti, 16 years old, whose father is a chef, learned of the problems of a large hotel from the chief chef; Consiglia Marino, 16, became assistant to the housekeeper. And Eugene Derrari, 17, made a survey of how many guests had registered at the hotel last year.

Now, maybe Leo won't care to be a chef or head steward. Perhaps Consiglia won't cotton to a housekeeper's job or Eugene may wish to sling rivets instead of auditing ledgers. But, at least they will have had their chance. They will have had that opportunity to contact reality which our modern world so often denies a child—the right to size things up and decide what they want to tackle.

And there's a queer inconsistency! No American generation was ever, seemingly, more sophisticated than this present one. They are wise beyond their years in a thousand matters of which their parents never dreamed. Yet, when it comes to practical matters they're often "babes-in-arms." For why? Because we don't let life get a whack at them.

Isn't there a way? Couldn't the school boards, city fathers and union leaders devise a plan by which our Young Americans could get a "look-see" at life, as is? Couldn't they at least be taken on extensive, carefully planned inspection tours, not mere, giggling rambles, through various craft headquarters?

Cities That are 'Built On Oil'

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—Accustomed to the mixture of ancient and modern in civic development, as is common to Mansfield and other Ohio cities which proudly trace their history back a hundred years or more, it is the amazing newness of everything in the larger Oklahoma cities that first impresses visitors.

It is difficult to realize that this flourishing capital city, with a population now exceeding 200,000 dates no further back than that April day in 1889 when the government opened Indian territory to white settlers and precipitated the memorable land rush which, over night, made this a tented town of around 10,000 population.

Now it is so modern a city that even the idea of parking meters as a partial solution of traffic congestion problems originated here.

With a capitol distinctive in appearance because there is no dome on a building obviously designed for a dome, the capital grounds are also unique in having large producing oil wells on the plaza, while the nearby Park-O-Tell boasts of being the only hotel in the United States with an oil well on its grounds.

It appears that within a field practically bounded by corporation lines there are approximately 1,600 oil wells—which accounts for some of them being almost in the back yards of beautiful homes—and, strangely enough, they are not regarded as nuisances.

TULSA is another city in which newness is an outstanding characteristic, for na residential or business structures here seem old, there is no hint of abandoned street car tracks and the width of principal thoroughfares indicates original planning for motorized transportation instead of horse-drawn vehicles.

Known as a city "built on oil", and also as "the oil capital of the world," Tulsa has grown from a population of 7,000 in 1907 to a present population approaching 150,000 and is now making ready for a new $15,000,000 bomber assembly plant which is expected to employ from 14,000 to 17,000 workers as a part of the national defense program.

NATURALLY, in approaching Tulsa over route 66 from the northeast, a stop was made in Claremore to visit the Will Rogers Memorial, which was erected and is maintained at his birthplace by the state of Oklahoma as a tribute to the memory of the cowboy who as humorist, writer and philosopher attained world prominence.

Proof of the continued interest in Will Rogers is the fact that more than a half million persons visited the memorial last year and the daily average is now well above a thousand, with cars from every state in the union having been noted during one recent three-day count.

In the central foyer is a large bronze statue of Will Rogers, bearing his well known statement, "I never met a man I didn't like."

In the rooms of the memorial building are assembled the Indian, pioneer, historical and educational collections of keepsakes and mementoes which Will had collected.

Few people will pass through Claremore without stopping to visit this memorial.

Wage-Hour Boss Considers Boost In 40-Hour-Week on Defense Jobs

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Wage-Hour Administrator Philip Fleming soon may join the safari of U. S. officials sent to Great Britain for war studies.

If he goes, Fleming will study more than wage levels and overtime "efficiency." He isn't saying so for fear of repercussions, but Fleming wants to use the trip as a springboard for recommending some sensational changes in the Wage-Hour Act, as follows:

(1) A boost in the present 40-hour-a-week working maximum. Fleming believes this is especially necessary in the skilled crafts and wants to find out, from British experience, how long a man can work and remain efficient.

(2) A standardization of industrial wage levels all over the country.

Fleming dropped some broad hints on this in his annual report when he discussed "chaotic" labor conditions during the World war.

"Wages were then completely unstandardized and workers wandered from plant to plant seeking the best wages obtainable," Fleming reported. "Such was the confusion that the War Labor Policies Board was finally driven to consider the necessity of universal wage standardization, but peace intervened before that policy was effectuated.

"The United States cannot enter a future war without giving serious thought to the need for standardizing wages both to protect workers and to promote the efficient utilization of their time."

Congressional Economy.

DESPITE loud congressional talk about economy, the boys don't believe that economy, like charity, should begin at home.

For years senators and representatives have struggled along with free franking limited to the regular mails. For airmail, they had to dig into their own jeans.

This was a problem to challenge the ingenuity of the most gravy-wise politico, since the air lines are not equipped to handle a congressman's mail like the government, at taxpayers' expense. But now a "way out" has been found.

It is an obscure little item in the legislative appropriation bill providing an annual "airmail expense" fund of $50 for each member of congress. Under it the boys nominally will pay the regular six-cent rate like the rest of us. But they won't have to shell out themselves. The rest of us will do that for them through the $50 "airmail expense" fund for each congressman.

Note—Another illustration of congressional "economy" will be revealed soon.

War Notes.

U. S. OBSERVERS in Germany report that the Hess flight to Scotland is making a bigger impression on the German people even than was expected. Everyone in Germany is talking about it. But inside word is that the British have spoiled the effect somewhat by hurling so much radio propaganda at the Germans.

The effect of Hess' weird departure was so stupendous that all the British had to do was keep quiet and let the German people do their own propagandizing. . . . The Germans show absolutely no sympathy for the Italians; on the contrary, they gloated over every Italian defeat. . . . The French aren't advertising it but they were careful long ago to transfer their 4,000,000,000 gold marks (one billion dollars) from Martinique to Dakar. Maybe they remembered that several billion was still due Uncle Sam on war debts.

Glass and Reynolds.

PEPPERY Senator Carter Glass of Virginia explodes easily, but not in a long time did he reach a higher boiling point than when he learned Senator Bob Reynolds, vocal North Carolina isolationist, had been made chairman of the Military Affairs Committee.

Glass was unable to attend the meeting of the Democratic Steering Committee which nominated Reynolds, but left strict instructions that his vote was to be cast against him. Later Glass went to the senate floor to take part in debate on the foreign ships acquisition bill and to vote against the Vandenberg-Clark amendment, which would have banned the transfer of Axis vessels to the British.

After the amendment was beaten, he picked up a newspaper. Suddenly jumping up, he smashed the paper to the floor, then put on the fieriest exhibition of pantomimic fury newspapermen have ever witnessed. His eyes blazed and the corners of his mouth danced with whispered expletives.

Noting Glass' agitation, Senator "Happy" Chandler of Kentucky rushed over to ask the trouble.

"I'll tell you what's the matter," snapped the senator from Virginia. "It's the alleged Democratic leadership of this chamber. I just read that Barkley and Jimmy Byrnes voted for that blankety-blank Reynolds as chairman of the military committee.

"Fine leaders they are, selling out to the isolationists." Then with a contemptuous glare at Reynolds, seated nearby, Glass added, "Why, the first vote he cast after being made chairman was for this isolationist Vandenberg amendment."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A quiet little domestic scene on the Seventh avenue subway early yesterday morning gave the strap-hangers something to smile about. A Negro woman with a child in her arms and grinning happily, got on at Penn station. Suddenly the baby began to cry. The mother quickly hauled out a bottle of milk and thrust it into the baby's mouth. What delighted onlookers was the contents of the bottle—not just plain milk but chocolate milk.

It may have escaped your notice that railway express cars have proper names just as Pullmans do. It was, therefore, rather startling to pass a string of express cars in the Penn yards on Long Island this morning and to find that a car named Romeo was standing—so help me—next to Juliet.

Recently this department commented on the enormous changes on Welfare island which saw a ratty, vermine-infested old penitentiary transformed into a modern, sanitary hospital . . . They are making some changes in the penitentiaries at San Juan, Puerto Rico, also, I understand. One Puerto Rican pen in particular, built in 1837, has been sold to a distilling company and will be used as a bottling works.

Geographically, New York is 36 miles long and nearly 17 miles wide. Despite the advance of the machine age, it has as many horses today as at any time in its history, the number being slightly in excess of 17,000. Most of these animals are owned and used by milk companies which insist that deliveries at dawn are better achieved by horse than by truck. But perhaps the sleekest, best groomed horses in the city are owned by the police department. I saw about 60 mounted police coming in from a parade the other day, and all the horses were uniform in size and color, a deep rich red. The men sat their mounts like picked troopers from Stuart's cavalry.

One of the characters in it will be an Arab girl who was captured and brought to the West Indies as a slave . . . This is "Rivers of Glory," which will follow "Three Harbours" and "Stars on the Sea"—salty, exciting chronicles of America's infant merchant marine during colonial times.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, May 23, 1921.

List of 137 seniors to be graduated in June class was announced—82 girls and 55 boys. (They'll scarcely believe it was that long ago.)

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Geiger, Wayne street.

J. H. Harmon sold interest in Pastime cigar store to Charles Carlin and Fred Heldebrand.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Voegele went to Atlantic City to attend national confectioners' convention.

Little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoover underwent operation at Parker sanitarium.

Birth reports: Daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Spriggins; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Diebler.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, May 23, 1936.

American Legion auxiliary held its annual poppy sale.

Richard Murphy went to Toledo to represent the local K. of C. council at a convention.

Dr. G. J. Searle went to Chicago to attend the clinic.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker was elected secretary of the committee on nominations at the Northern Baptist convention held in St. Louis.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Weaver, 32 Euclid avenue.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The first National Convention of Worknigmen as a political group, at New York, nominated General U. S. Grant for president of the United States, and Henry Wilson for vice-president on May 23, 1872. These were the regular Republican candidates as well.

A Farmer's Diary

'Too Old'--and Hungry

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AN OLD beggar came into a chain ice cream and confectionery store when I was there and nervously approached the clerk. "Please, mister could you spare me a loaf of stale bread? I'm awful hungry."

The clerk replied courteously in the negative. "Sorry, we're not allowed to give anybody anything."

"I'm sorry, too" answered the old fellow and tottered out.

Leaving the place, I saw the old gray coat and dusty hat move in and out, far down the sidewalk. The old man's long thin tangled hair curled up beneath the rim behind. I saw him enter a small independent bakery, and followed. As I came in the woman proprietor was giving him a loaf of sugarcoated raisin bread. She wrapped it with a half dozen sweet rolls and placed the hundle in his quivering old hands.

"Thank you," he said, in a fervent high pitched voice, "and may God bless you for kindness to a wornout stranger."

"He reminded me a little of my own father," the bakery woman said, almost apologetically, as he went out. "He's too old to be around alone like that."

I was interested to know where he would eat and followed farther. He turned a corner into an alley between tall brick buildings. There, on a warped stairway between two high walls he sat on the step to unwrap his package. He was trembling. He was really hungry. He ate the sweet rolls first and then tore the loaf apart with his unwashed hands.

"Where is your home?" I stopped to ask.

"I had one 15 year ago—a fine one." He named a town in a southern county. "I lost all I had. Then my wife died. We hadn't no children so I'm left alone. . . . I'm too old," he added. "Nobody'll give me work. I'll be 80 tomorrow—nobody knows that but you and me. That was a good woman in the bakery. I'd hoe her garden if she had one, and needed me to . . . Well, I hope, son, when you get old you'll be more fortunate than me . . ."

"What will you do now?"

He got up briskly, rewrapped the remnant of bread in the paper and thrust it into his pocket. My presence, I saw, made him uneasy.

"Oh, I'll keep on walkin'. I ain't hungry now—I can keep on goin'. Might be I could find me a job if I jest knew where."

2 VOLUMES ON THEATER IN NEW LIBRARY LIST

'Curtains Going Up,' Along With 'Taking The Stage,' Now Being Released.

Now that the time has arrived for the "straw hat" theater to flourish again, amateur groups will be interested in reading two books now available at the Mansfield Public library.

"Curtains Going Up," by Albert McCleery and Carl Glicks is a survey of the little theater movement in this country together with studies of 184 separate community theaters from Maine to California. Appendices contain a proposed constitution and by-laws for a community theater, a contract for a director, budgets, lists of plays and other useful material.

"Taking the Stage" is a handbook for actors and for the individual who needs the guidance in self-development which an actor's training provides. It contains sections on dramatic technique, monodrama, foreign dialects and American folk speech used in the theater and radio.

Other new books include—Jack Iams new novel, THE COUNTESS TO BOOT, is slightly delirious, but quite refreshing in its gaiety. Gerry Hendricks was sacrificing his standards of art to the commercial demands of advertising when he met the countess—a hard drinker with outrageous conversational habits, and a past that included several husbands. Gerry liked her and he loved her secretary, but the girls' scorn for his improvident way of life drove him to the Virgin Islands. There he hoped to find the inspiration to become a second Gaugin. But his plans were thwarted and it was the countess who finally brought rescue.

ADAM PENFEATHER by Jeffery Farnol is a tale of high adventure, of murder, sea battles and intrigue. The author tells how Adam smuggled Antonia aboard a privateer, disguised as his half-brother; how he engineered a bloodless mutiny with a false fire on board; how Antonia's hatred for the huge, hearty sailorman, Absalom Troy, turned slowly to love; how they were married aboard a sinking ship; and how Adam attained his heart's desire.

THE GULLS FLY INLAND by Sylvia Thompson is the story of Blanche Lancret, a young French woman living in England during the first year of the new war, awaiting the return of an American whom she has loved since she was a young girl, and who was now free to come to her were it not for the war. In order to keep alive memories dear to her—her childhood, school days in England, her love for Vernon and her visit to his family—she relives the past.

OTHER FICTION— THAT NONE SHOULD DIE, by Slaughter; THE REMARKABLE ANDREW by Trumbo; GOODNIGHT SHERIFF by Steeves.

William Alexander Percy, author of LANTERNS ON THE LEVEE, presents the old south at its best, with many of its prejudices in his leisurely recollections of the Mississippi delta country. He writes of his childhood when "any little boy who was not raised with little Negro children might just as well not have been raised at all," of his life at Harvard law school, abroad and in the army during the first World war. Coming home, he helped his father fight the Ku Klux Klan. It contains generous doses of anecdotes.

In THE BIG SEA, Langston Hughes, a Negro writer, describes his struggles to exist during footloose, roving years in Europe, Mexico, Africa and the United States. Stories and anecdotes of Paris night-club life during the 1920's, of Harlem literati, of snobbish Washington Negro society, of life on a tramp steamer, and of a rich white patroness are told with irony, some criticism, and no bitterness.

BELLEVUE by Maynard and Miscall is an effort on the part of the authors to replace the usual picture of horror and fear that the name of New York City's hospital for the poor raises, by the truer picture of a first class hospital, clean, scientifically managed, and manned by doctors and nurses who treat their patients not as cases but as human beings deserving of the best they can give. The book is popularly written and contains a large store of anecdotal material.

OTHER NON-FICTION: TOUGHEN UP AMERICA; by Heiser; LIGHTPLANE FLYING by Langewiesche; AIRCRAFT MATERIALS AND PROCESSES by Titterton; AIRCRAFT ENGINE MAINTENANCE by Brimm and Boggess; HOW TO BUY OR BUILD YOUR HOME WISELY by Abercrombie; CONSIDER THE CHILDREN AND HOW THEY GROW by Manwell; CHILDREN IN THE FAMILY by Powdermaker; FEEDING OUR OLD-FASHIONED CHILDREN by Aldrich; ENCYCLOPEDIA OF CANARIES AND OTHER CAGE BIRDS by Fogg.

ONE DAY REMAINS TO SUBMIT JOHN DOE CONTEST ENTRIES

John Doe is the average Mansfield citizen. You see him dozens of times every day and usually end up by talking to him at least that many times. But have you ever thought that he could pave the way to entertainment for you?

He may, if you enter the Mansfield News-Journal John Doe contest which is being staged in cooperation with the management of the Ohio theater where Gary Cooper's new picture, "Meet John Doe," opens Saturday.

The thing you need to do is produce the mythical "man in the street" in person. To enter the contest you must have a real person in mind, a man who fits your idea of John Doe. Wives may nominate their husbands and the men may nominate themselves. If you wish to nominate anyone outside your immediate family be sure to gain the person's consent. Entries describing a fictitious person will not be considered.

Five sets of four tickets and 15 pairs of tickets to the picture, "Meet John Doe," will be given as a reward to the winners. Both men and women are eligible to the contest and entries addressed to The News-Journal contest editor must be postmarked not later than 6 p. m. Saturday.

In submitting the name write the reasons for your choice in 50 words or less and answer 14 questions which are to assist the judges in deciding what John Doe is like and thereby establishing the winners.

These are the questions: (1) Do you have a hobby, if so, what is it? (2) Do you belong to a lodge? (3) What is your chief recreation? (4) What is the extent of your education? (5) Do you carry insurance? (6) Do you have a bank account? (7) Do you budget your income? (8) Do you vote? (9) Do you have a charge account? (10) Do you subscribe to a daily newspaper? (11) Do you have a family doctor? (12) Do you have a telephone? (13) Do you own your home? (14) Do you have children?

In answering the questions simply put the number of each question opposite its answer and write on only one side of the paper. The answers to the questions will not be counted as part of the 50 words allowed each entrant for his reasons for thinking his nominee is Mansfield's John Doe..

LAUNCH PROJECTS

BUCYRUS — Crawford county 4-H clubs will get underway with their projects at organization meetings scheduled to be held in the various communities during the next two weeks.

REGISTRATION OPENS TOMORROW FOR CHILDREN'S THEATER HERE

Mansfield will have a Children's theater again this year the program committee of the Community Players, sponsors of the movement, indicated today.

Mrs. Robert Beatty and Mrs. Irving Clark, members of the committee, conferred yesterday afternoon with Harold McCuen, director of the Children's theater since it started two years ago, and made plans for registration Saturday.

Registration will be conducted in the Larwill room of the Mansfield Public Library, Saturday, between 10 a. m. and 12 noon and will be open to children and young people in two age groups, six to 13 and 14 to 17.

Classes will be conducted over a period of eight weeks from June through August, according to McCuen, and will be held four days a week, Monday through Thursday, at South park.

McCuen recently returned to Mansfield after making appearances as a dramatic reader before 150 organizations throughout the east and middle west. He has been scene designer for the Community Players and has conducted dramatic classes at Friendly House.

The Children's theater has presented such productions as "Little Black Sambo," "Midsummer Night's Dream," and "The Christmas Carol," in the past and the tentative program this year calls for even more pretentious offerings.

Limited to 15 students in a group the classes offer a choice in diction, poise, creative dramatics, make-up, scene and costume design, microphone technique, choric reading, history of the theater, play production and stagecraft.

"The Authority on Authorities"

Books on hobbies are interesting for young subscribers of Mansfield Public Library now that vacation time is close at hand. Two such books, one dealing with model airplane building and the other with fishing, have just been added to the display in the children's room.

BUILDING AND FLYING MODEL AIRPLANES—The Air Youth of America who have prepared this book describes it as a handbook for those interested in model planes. It may be used as a textbook for the beginner or as a reference book for more advanced builders. One of the features of the book is the material on the testing of flying models and the effect of weather on both building and flying.

LET'S GO FISHING! by Lee Wulff—This is a simple book which the author describes as "a boys' book on freshwater fishing describing tackle and how to make it, the common baits and how to find them, the common fish and how to fish for them." There are even appetizing suggestions for cooking the fish if your luck has been good.

CHAPTER XXVI

Raye tried to say something, then found she couldn't without making Bill Anderson out a fortune hunter. So she determinedly choked back the sob in her throat and made the corners of her unsteady lips curve upward.

Sometimes a smile is as effective as the spoken word. Raye found this to be so now, while wondering how to get rid of the aching void in her heart. She wondered, too, if Rex could ever fill this void, as much as she respected and admired him.

She understood perfectly now that Bill Anderson had, as she had half-suspected all along, tried to shift the guilt of that shooting to himself in order to save her from disgrace. He must have loved her at the time. Surely, he must have. Yet now—how inconsistent he was! Now, he was not thinking about love—he was going to marry—money!

"How about setting a date for our marriage, darling?" suggested Rex, his brown eyes exultant.

She hesitated.

Apprehensively, he threw back his heavy-set shoulders. His sturdy figures seemed poured into the well-cut black costume and he looked every inch the pompous ambassador he was impersonating.

Raye flashed him an admiring glance, glad that if she had to rush into marriage as a means of escape, it would be with this distinguished-looking, cultured man of the world.

"I'll marry you any time," she told him recklessly. "Next week, if you like."

"Great scott! Am I in my right mind—or have you lost yours, sweetheart? I feel like an Aladdin—my luck's so startling."

But at this instant instant, Raye's eyes filled with surprise. There was also a hint of fear in them.

With long sure strides, Bill Anderson, in red-coated officer's uniform, was coming swiftly toward them.

"You two parked out here for keeps?" he said, his mouth spread in a wide, boyish grin. "I've been hunting high and low for you, Raye. We haven't had our dance yet, you know."

This free and easy role he was assuming nettled her. But with it had leaped to the surface another feeling that made her tremble uncontrollably.

Her eyes met his, and she found herself getting to her feet as ir she were steel drawn to magnet.

She did collect her scattered wits enough to say falteringly to Rex, "Hope you don't mind—you may have all my dances when I come back."

Rex caught the thrustlike lilt in her voice and wondered.

He thought, slightly disturbed, "What has Bill Anderson got that I haven't?" But he gave Raye his heart with his intense brown eyes.

Her happy laughter floated back as she moved off with Bill, and that worried Rex also. Raye didn't laugh exactly like that when she was with him.

Then he shook off this gloomy conjecture and hurried across the corridor and into the ballroom to find Toots Blume. She could fox-trot like nobody's business and now, really engaged to Raye, he felt in high spirits.

Bill and Raye began to dance. The orchestra was playing a dreamy waltz that was the season's biggest hit; the dimly lighted room, the odor of perfume, powder and flowers, was sweeping many a couple into a heady love story. It might be gone by tomorrow, or even within the hour. It might stretch into Lohengrin, wedding gifts and honeymoons. There was no telling.

Bill glanced longingly down at the flowerlike little Watteau shepherdess in his arms, a heavy sigh escaping him.

He asked, on the verge of sulkiness, "Why so kind to everyone but me?"

Her heart beat faster but she dared to look up at him.

"I—I didn't realize I was," she faltered.

"I want to keep you with me a long time, Raye—for eight or ten dances. I want to knock down the fence you've built between us."

"Fence I've built?" came from her indignantly.

"Exactly. Let's get to the bottom of this misunderstanding of ours."

"Really? I hadn't noticed." She was remembering that big solitaire she had seen on Rosalind's engagement finger. "I wasn't aware we'd—had a misunderstanding."

"Call it what you like—we have to patch up our—our difficulties."

"Difficulties?" She raised her dark eyebrows and looked maddeningly innocent.

"Don't drive me to desperation, darling. You know perfectly well what I mean."

She stumbled and he caught her to him tightly. For a sweet, heavenly moment, she forgot everything but his nearness.

Bill went on swiftly, "You didn't come to the hospital, Raye, after that first time. I looked for you every day—I can't tell you how your—your neglect hurt me. Several times I was on the verge of sending you a message—but I hate to beg for favors. I decided not to ask for an explanation—when you had shown you—didn't care."

There was a hurt expression in his dear hazel eyes that wrung her heart.

"I'm sorry," Raye said bruskly but feeling tearful—"But—but what else could you expect?"

"Different treatment from you, of course."

"You mustn't think I'm ungrateful. You saved my life—and I'll never forget that. I—I simply thought it best—not to see you again."

"But after what had gone before—after I'd told you how I . . ."

"I'm so glad the Bedford matter has been settled, Bill," she said, nipping his aspirations in the bud. "I'll acknowledge something now. When you left town so abruptly after the shooting, then came out with a confession, I thought there might be some truth in it. It was splendid of you, Bill—to have such faith in me—to try to save me from—from a serious situation."

"Why shouldn't I? I loved you."

In his voice was that mellow gentleness that comes from a man deeply stirred.

She wanted to lay her head on his broad shoulder and shed tears of joy while telling herself now that she'd never been more miserable.

"I can tell you now my reasons for leaving town that time," he added. "I was too ashamed before. I suppose I wanted my family to be as respectable as yours—thought you might not like me quite so well if they weren't."

"Your—your family?" she asked wide-eyed.

"Yes. I went home because of my kid brother. He's a swell boy—but he got to running around with the wrong gang. There was a holdup and mother wired me to come home immediately. Since father passed away, mother has had a tough time trying to bring up two sons."

Raye's eyes were averted. She was afraid Bill would read in them her vital interest in his long delayed explanation of his sudden departure when she had needed him so much.

"To make a long story short," Bill went on, "after reaching Syracuse, I found Charlie wasn't actually implicated in the holdup. I got him a good job in a furniture factory and now he's doing fine."

"Oh, that's wonderful, Bill! I'm so glad for you! For your mother, too. You must have a dear mother."

He thought he saw something in her big blue eyes that might be a favorable omen.

"Mother would love you, Raye."

"I'm sure I would love her, too. It's too bad—you and met—too late."

"But Raye—why is it too late?"

She thought swiftly of his golden opportunity in the Grinner office—of what marrying Rosalind would bring him. She remembered his earnest insistence that she marry an eligible.

All she could force through her stiff lips was, "Sorry."

A violin was carrying the haunting melody of the waltz now, and unconsciously Raye drew closer into Bill's arms. There was an angelic singing in her ears, a delicious throbbing of her senses, and somehow she felt entirely alone with him, even as they weaved in and out through the crowd of gay dancers.

She shook herself out of this trancelike state, hoping she could be strong enough not to let him know how she felt about him. He was going to marry Rosalind. She was going to marry Rex. Their lives were already neatly arranged. But just this one time, just these few minutes with him, she would lock in the chambers of her heart forever.

"I've heard about your grand position in the Grinner firm," she finally said. "Congratulations!"

"Oh—thanks. I'm enthusiastic over it—of course. I'm all puffed up about being noticed by a man like Franklin Grinner. He's made his mark financially—has a shrewd mind. I'd like to win his confidence. The firm's well established—and I intend to make myself indispensable."

"You will, I know. Then I shall brag about—about having once known the very successful Bill Anderson," she told him bravely, but her voice broke.

"Why the past tense, Raye? Why all this evasion?"

"I didn't mean it just the way it's only that—that . . ."

The dance ended and she did not finish the sentence.

Bill Anderson looked doggedly determined as he took her by the arm. He led her quickly out through the bar and into a leather-seated booth.

They were presently sitting opposite each other and Bill's eyes were filled with tragic impatience.

Raye was apprehensive. While he studied the menu, she studied him. She wished desperately that she could find something about him to dislike, to criticise adversely. But there was nothing.

A waiter came up and they ordered hot coffee and watercress sandwiches, although knowing full well that about now there must be a feast laid out for the party guests in one of the upstairs dining rooms.

But Raye knew that Bill wanted these few minutes alone with her as much as she wanted them, and there was no use trying to deceive themselves about their love. It lay between them now, a dear, nearly sacred thing. But they must not reach out and touch its glimmering depths—not now with Bill's destiny marked so clear and straight before him. Any man might come to hate a woman who had ruined his business career.

She wondered how soon he planned to marry Rosalind. Then hoped and prayed that he wouldn't talk about it.

How she loved him! Such a well-molded head on muscular shoulders she would never see in another man. He looked solid enough, physically fit enough in his red-coated officer's outfit to sweep her off her feet, bend her to his will in every particular.

And oh, how she longed for him to do just this!

She dropped her dark silky lashes to avoid his glance now. Courage rapidly ebbed out of her.

"Raye—you're so lovely. Raye—I love you so."

Her breath stopped. Her heart stood still. Then raced on in mad exultation.

She knew she had been waiting for hours, days, weeks even, to hear just this.

JACK OF TRADES

EXETER, N. H.—(U.P.)—John H. Elkins, 74, can truly be called a jack of all trades.

He operates a store, besides being an auctioneer, jeweler, and taxidermist. Elkins has sold everything from a teacup to a city block, stuffed a humming bird and a moose, repaired wrist watches and a town clock.

RELIEF COSTS GO DOWN HERE

State Expenditures Drop To Lowest Point; Decline Here Amounts To $1,850.

With April relief costs in Richland county and the rest of the state dropping to the lowest mark in recent years, the county's allocation of state funds for last month totaled only $2,166.

The state money will be supplemented by county and city funds to pay relief bills for the month. County relief costs for April totaled $9,190, approximately $1,850 less than for March.

The state's relief bill for April amounted to $1,599,415, lowest since the state welfare department took over the relief program, Welfare Director Charles Sherwood said.

He added that $675,000 would be distributed to the local relief areas out of the temporary appropriation bill. An additional $219,317 will be distributed later under the permanent appropriation bill, passed last week, Sherwood said.

Allocations to other counties in this area included $1,402 to Ashland county, $725 to Crawford, $751 to Holmes, and $704 to Morrow county.

GET TAX FUNDS

Richland Subdivisions Given $143,157 In Revenue.

Operating funds of the county and its subdivisions and schools were enriched by $143,157 today by the distribution of that amount in personal tax receipts for the first half of the year.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, whose office made the distribution, said only a small part of the funds were distributed in advance before the scheduled settlement.

The allocation gave Mansfield $42,140 and the city's schools $13,998. Richland county received $30,935 and Shelby got $20,654.

Also sharing the tax funds were the Mansfield and Shelby libraries, the townships and rural schools. The county had to pay the state $237 for the services of the state tax commission.

Result of Beating By Father

Pending appointment of a new circuit court judge, Sheridan Rose of near Cheboygan, Mich., is free on bond in connection with the beating of his six-year-old daughter, Madonna, partially disabled from infantile paralysis. Rose pleaded guilty in court, saying he thrashed for for a childish fault. Physicians who examined the child said that "I never in all my life saw a child beaten so badly." The father and mother are separated. The father boarded the child in Cheboygan to attend school. The doctor who took this picture said the child's wrists had been cruelly twisted. Even her ears had been cut.

BOXCAR SUBURB

CORDOVA, Alaska—(U.P.)—Here is a tip on how to start a town:

Enterprising home-seekers have created a "suburban" district here—a community composed of box cars from an abandoned railroad. The cars, on a siding, have been fitted with modern plumbing and lighting.

It's a very cozy effect, occupants of the cars say.

MISS WALLACE WILL WED MR. H. E. ELDRED

Announcement Party Given Thursday Evening at J. G. Wallace Home to Tell of Coming Marriage on Saturday, June 21.

IN A QUIET home wedding on Saturday, June 21, at 4:30 o'clock Miss Sarah Catherine Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wallace, 610 Park avenue west, will exchange nuptial vows with Homer E. Eldred of Cleveland. Thirty friends were invited to an announcement party at the Wallace home Thursday evening and learned at that time of the coming event. Rev. D. N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will officiate at the service for the immediate families.

Mrs. Wallace was hostess for the party last evening and was assisted by Mrs. John H. Finefrock. Bridge was the diversion at six tables with score prizes being awarded to Mrs. L. E. Simonis and Mrs. Walter Jameson. The guests learned of the approaching marriage when Mrs. Jameson was asked to sing. She gave an original composition telling of the coming wedding, and was accompanied at the piano by Miss Thelma Reed.

Later refreshments were served at small tables. Roses and glads were the floral decorations used throughout the home.

Out-of-town guests in attendance were Mrs. Simonis of Galion and Miss Frances Freer of Ashland.

Miss Wallace, teacher of music and art at Newman school, was graduated from Mansfield high school, attended Ohio Wesleyan university and was graduated from Ashland college. She also studied voice a year at the Institute of Music in Cleveland.

Crestline Girl Weds Mansfield Man on May 17

Miss Antoinette Weaver, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Weaver of Bucyrus street, Crestline, became the bride of Robert Tidd, son of Mrs. Leander James of Mansfield in a formal service read May 17 at the St. Joseph's Catholic church in Crestline. Father F. A. Slattery read the single ring service, assisted by Father Francis Deitz of Sebring.

Attending the couple were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Stanley Civinski of Mansfield, matron of honor, and the bride's sister, Miss Teresa Weaver, bridesmaid. Stanley Civinski was best man and Merle Lyons of Massillon, usher.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin and a bridal illusion veil fashioned in cap shape with a crown of seed pearls and orange blossoms used on her mother's wedding veil. Her wedding bouquet was Regal lilies. Her attendants wore frocks of peach chiffon and their arm bouquets were of peach colored gladiolus.

Following the service a wedding breakfast was served at the Gibson House. Later in the day the couple left for a trip and upon their return will reside in Mansfield.

The bride was graduated from Crestline high school and the Marion Commercial college. She has been employed as secretary at the Mercy hospital in Canton. Mr. Tidd attended Mansfield schools and is employed at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

HONOR MEMBER.

Pin-Pals club members met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Artis McLaughlin, South Main street for their regular business meeting and a personal shower for Mrs. Clifton Balliett. Pink candles and blue and yellow pansies decorated the table when luncheon was served. After the luncheon the afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. Balliett, president, conducted the business meeting. The next meeting will be held June 26 at the home of Mrs. Richard Parkison, Alta.

Ladies of 37th Division Meet At Memorial Hall

Ladies of the 37th division of the A. E. F., Veterans' association, met with the veterans of the Memorial building, Thursday evening. A covered dish dinner was enjoyed by the 40 in attendance after which a miscellaneous program was presented.

Richard and Eugene Griesbach, violinists, played "Koliwoda" and "Carnival of Venice," accompanied by Walter Simons. Miss Betty Wynn of the Herrick Studio sang "Georgia" and gave an acrobatic dance. Miss Viola Myers played accordion solos, "Little Soldier" and "God Bless America."

Mrs. Milton Gettleman was general chairman; assisted by Mrs. Paul Young, Mrs. Mary Lister and Mrs. C. E. Sanderson. Plans were made for the veterans to entertain the ladies at a party June 26, the place to be announced later.

Surprise Party Given for Mrs. Rolla Stull

Continuing the series of postnuptial parties for Mrs. Rolla Stull, nee Ruth Cole, was the surprise bridge party given last evening at the home of Mrs. Joseph Unterwagner, South Diamond street. The bridge club associates gave her a shower of miscellaneous gifts when refreshments were served at one long table centered with a pink and green umbrella under which the gifts were placed. Miniature umbrellas were the favors at each place.

High score gifts for the diversion were won by Mrs. Stull and Mrs. Irene Troup. Mrs. Joseph Woerth was a guest present for the party.

Women's Aid Meets For Last Session

Women's Aid of Pennsylvania railroad held their last regular meeting of the year Thursday afternoon at the Staiger tea room. Members met at 1 o'clock for a luncheon which was served at small tables decorated with spring flowers. Mrs. J. E. Young was hostess for the affair.

Mrs. E. W. High, president, conducted a short business meeting. Bingo was the diversion of the afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. G. A. Godley, Mrs. Anna Lape, Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, and Mrs. A. T. Rogers. The next session of the organization will be a picnic supper for the members and families, June 28, at North Lake park pavilion.

NEEDLECRAFT CLUB.

Mrs. Roy Crider, 402 Springmill street, entertained members of the Needlecraft club at her home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Bert Velzy, president, conducted a short business session. Contests were played and prizes won by Mrs. Fred Arnold and Mrs. Doris Roberson. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon at small tables decorated with spring flowers. The next meeting will be held June 12 at the home of Mrs. E. J. Hartnett, 232 South Mulberry street.

CLUB MEETING.

Social Crochet club members met Thursday afternoon at North Park pavilion for a birthday luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ira Peeler. Sixteen members and one guest, Miss Jeannette Remy, attended the party. White and orchid iris decorated the tables. After the luncheon, the afternoon was spent socially. The next meeting will be a birthday dinner, June 5, at North park pavilion, in honor of Mrs. Pauline Black.

Miss Gerstmeyer Gives Party for Margaret Stahl

Miss Martha Gerstmeyer, 435 Parker street, complimented Miss Margaret Stahl, bride-elect of Robert Creamer, at a lovely nuptial party Thursday evening at her home. Bridge was in play at three tables during the evening and score prizes were won by Miss Eleanor Ropp and Mrs. Irvin Whisler, who presented them to the honoree. The guests surprised Miss Stahl with a shower of miscellaneous gifts and the hostess gave her a gift.

Late in the evening luncheon was served at one long table decorated with a floral centerpiece lighted with many tall tapers. Miniature sailboats were the favors at each place and at the honoree's place was a bridal couple. Pastel colors were used for the decorations.

Local Artists To Give Recital Sunday Afternoon

Miss Mabel Zehner will present an organ recital at the First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, assisted by Mrs. Margaret B. Hall, pianist. The program to be given by Miss Zehner will be as follows: "Theme and Variations in A Flat" by Thiele: Andante (Grande Piece Symphonique)" by Franck; "Intermezzo" by Bonnet, "May Night" by Palmgren, "Dance of the Reed-Flutes" by Tschaikowsky, "Sunshine-Toccata" by Swinnen.

The following selections will be played by both Mrs. Hall and Miss Zehner: "Second Concerto in D Minor" by MacDowell, "Symphonic Piece" by Clokey, which is in five parts, "Dialogue," "Romance," "Scherzo," "Intermezzo" and "Fugue."

Miss Zehner studied organ with Edwin Arthur Kraft, Arthur B. Jennings and the noted French organist, Joseph Bonnet. She is a member of the American Guild of Organists and has given recitals in many leading cities throughout the country. Mrs. Hall is a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory and has had concert work in the east, both solo and duo.

Jean Bookwalter Will Marry on June 14 Here

For the pleasure of Miss Jean Bookwalter, bride-elect of Ralph Benedict of Shelby, whose marriage will be solemnized June 14 at the First Lutheran church, was the party given last evening at the home of Mrs. Marvin Stevens, 181 Glessner avenue. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bookwalter, 473 Glessner avenue.

Contests were the diversion of the party and prizes were won by Mrs. Ray Stevens, Mrs. Roy Naylor, Miss Bookwalter and Miss Harriett Bookwalter. Prizes were presented to the honoree. Twenty-two were present and gave the bride-to-be a shower of miscellaneous gifts. Pink and white was the color scheme used for the table appointments. Out-of-town guests were Miss Helen Benedict and Miss Betty Light of Shelby and Mrs. Norman Wendling, Mrs. G. P. Naylor and Miss Jewel Naylor of Cleveland.

Bride-Elect and Musicians

MISS Dorothy Schnee of Akron, pictured in the top photo, will become the bride of Howard M. Doner of Mansfield, early in the summer, according to announcement being made. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Schnee of Akron, and is a graduate of Wooster college, and former teacher at West High school in Akron. Mr. Doner attended Syracuse university and is associated with the Connecticut General Life Insurance company. Lower left photo is of Mrs. Margaret Hall, pianist, who with Miss Mabel Zehner, organist, right photo, will present a recital at the First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon.

West Fifth Street Mothers Give Victory Banquet at School

WEST FIFTH street school Mothers' club held their annual victory banquet Thursday evening in the John Simpson cafeteria. After the banquet a program was presented, opened with a prayer by Mrs. H. D. Bishop. A talk on "Activities of the Club During the Last Year" was given by W. W. Blauser, principal. Response was given by Mrs. Lloyd Stuck, club president.

Group singing was led by Raymond Dent who also sang a solo. The Mother Singers offered a group of vocal selections. Mrs. Ralph Worley accompanied the vocalists at the piano. Jean Worley gave a reading. A piano quartet, composed of Ilene Dysart, Virginia Horst, Elaine Guiher, and Jean Worley, offered several numbers.

Contests were played during the evening and prizes won by Mrs. R. B. Schoenman and Mrs. Carl Heilman. Prizes were awarded the women serving as captains in the recent membership drive. Captains of the winning teams were Mrs. James Brownscombe and Mrs. O. M. Adams. Mrs. Dale Patterson and Mrs. Ivan Stull captained the losing team.

Mrs. C. E. Flockenzier was in charge of program arrangements and Mrs. Dale Patterson refreshments. The last meeting of the year will be held May 29 at the school. Luncheon was served at long tables decorated with red, white and blue appointments.

At the close of the Thursday afternoon session gifts were presented to Mrs. Glenn Wright, Mrs. P. C. Wymond, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Mary Howell, Mrs. Flockenzier, Mrs. B. E. McCaskey, Mrs. Mick Gordon, Mrs. Guy Rebok, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. L. A. Schrack, in honor of their children's graduation from elementary school.

Miss Betty Myers Feted By Five Sorority Sisters

Five sorority sisters of Miss Betty Myers, bride-elect of Jack Pealer, whose wedding will be an event of June 1, honored her with a party Thursday evening at the Woods, near Ashland. Hostesses, members of the Delta chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority were Mrs. Warren Ullom, Mrs. Lowell Moore, Mrs. Parker O'Brien, Mrs. Eugene Earick, and Mrs. Harry Hollingsworth.

Bridge was the diversion at three tables with score gifts being won by Miss Betty Myers and Mrs. Robert Brollier. Later the group gave her a shower of linen gifts and the hostesses a wedding gift. Dessert was served at the small tables decorated with appointments in yellow and white.

Mrs. Brollier of Mt. Gilead was the only out-of-town guest.

Parties will continue for Miss Myers before her wedding. Tonight Mrs. Frank Mengert and Miss Marjorie Bolus will be hostesses at the Feidler home, Lexington avenue. On Saturday Mrs. David Martin of Ashland will be hostess; Monday, Mrs. James Clark and Mrs. Brollier, and Wednesday, Mrs. Russell Doehla.

Glenn Rohleder To Be Honored With Banquet

Glenn Rohleder, who has been principal of the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school since its erection, will be honored at a dinner at the school on June 3, given by the parents of the band club members and the Parent-Teachers' association members. Mr. Rohleder will leave the school to become principal of the Senior high school.

Announcement of the party was made last evening at the meeting of the P. T. A. at the school. Election of officers was held with the following chosen: Mrs. C. G. Young, president; John Correll, vice president; O. A. Redhair, second vice president; Mrs. George Loesch, secretary, and Mrs. Milton Layer, treasurer.

The business session was in charge of E. S. Wendell for the final meeting of the year. Two pupils of the Marguerite Speas' dancing school entertained. They were Mary Lou Anderson, tap dancing, and Anita King, acrobatic dancing.

Edith Stuckey Elected Head Of Story League

Miss Edith Stuckey was elected president of the Mansfield Story League at the regular meeting held at the Y. W. C. A. club rooms Thursday. Miss Helen Hartman was in charge of the meeting at which time it was voted to discontinue associate memberships.

Other officers chosen were Miss Jean Shively, vice president; Miss Roselyn Zychick, recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Curtiss, corresponding secretary; Miss Marie Hoover, treasurer. The program committee is composed of Misses Ruth Moffet, Vera Smythe, Leona Snyder, Anne Verba and Mrs. S. Secord. Members of the social committee are Misses Hazel Manner, Isabel Mosey and Leona Miles. Miss Isabel Spears is in charge of publicity; Miss Helen Hartman, music, and Miss Shively, membership; Miss Elsie Smith, service; Mrs. J. W. Funk, scrap book.

Plans were made to attend the national convention, June 18, at St. Louis, Mo., with two representatives to be present from the local group. Miss Elsie Smith, program chairman, presented the topic, "On The Wings of Peace," which concluded the year's program. Miss Hartman gave "Three Questions" by Tolstoe, and "An Old Gun" by Mautone was told by Miss Spears.

Mrs. Campbell Entertains Child Conservation Club

Mrs. Wilbur Campbell was hostess to members of the Child Conservation club when she entertained the group at her home, Harter avenue, Thursday evening. Mrs. Richard Nixon was the associate hostess. Nineteen members and one guest were present. Mrs. Charles Newcomb conducted the business session at which time it was voted to back the British War Relief projects. Club representatives will be Mrs. Earl Boals, chairman, Mrs. Fred Proctor and Mrs. James Martin.

Mrs. Robert Kern spoke during the program period on "Responsibility and Understanding," and Mrs. Boals' subject was "Security and Character Building." At a later hour a luncheon was served with pink tapers and orchid iris decorating the service table. Mrs. Carl Brock poured.

The next meeting on June 12 will be held at the home of Mrs. Orville Kibler, Ontario, with Mrs. Robert Dunson as associate hostess. The program will be furnished by Mrs. Newcomb and Mrs. Ted Banks who will speak on phases of the topic, "Manners in The Making."

ENTERTAIN CLUB.

Mrs. Jack Francis entertained members of the Buena Vista club at her home in Lincoln Heights, Thursday afternoon. Eleven members and four guests, Mrs. Maude Nixon, Miss Allene Hout, Miss Mary Francis and Ronald Dudley, were in attendance. After the business session, which was conducted by the president, Mrs. H. H. Hout, contests were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. George Weimer, Mrs. Hout, Mrs. Kenneth Nixon and Mrs. V. G. Dudley. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at a long table decorated with garden flowers. The next meeting will be held June 26 at the home of Mrs. Leila Boals, Koogle road.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN

Lovely lines for a lovely lady—in an entrancing new Marian Martin dress made from Pattern 9677. A dress to provoke those welcome "how-slim-you've-grown" remarks from everyone. There's clever designing through the bodice, where two panels start just below the cool, low sweetheart neck and flow smoothly down into a wide, curving waistband. Each side-front bodice section is soft and full-cut, with darts at the shoulders and gathering above the waist. The skirt has a single smart panel down the front; the short sleeves are straight or tucked. Lace all around the neck and sleeves adds daintiness. Another suggestion is to make the panels and waistband in attractive contrast. Do start this frock soon!

Pattern 9677 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric and 2⅛ yards lace edging.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th Street, New York, N. Y.

When making up spiced fruit cookies to accompany hot or cold beverages, use pineapple juice in place of the liquid called for in the recipe. The tart flavor is very good with spicy blends.

KNITTED CHAIR SET — PATTERN 2831

To dress up your chairs in style, choose this lovely knitted chair set. It's done on two needles in mercerized cotton. You'll be proud of your handiwork. Now's the time to get started! Pattern 2831 contains directions for making set; illustrations of it and stitches; photograph of pattern stitch; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Thank heaven!" I ejaculated involuntarily, and heard my father's faint chuckle coming over the telephone wire.

"I am glad I have pleased you," he said, "and now I want you to do something for me."

"Anything you wish," I told him earnestly, and he spoke swiftly.

"You probably will have to be up for some time after I arrive," he said, "so I want you to go to bed at once. I will come directly to your room and knock three times. Now, how soon can you go to bed?"

I sent a hasty mental glance over the things which waited to be done — interviews promised Olga and Nancy Carew, and the present interview with Philip Veritzen. But there was no use bothering my father with the list—he would insist that I cancel it if I did tell him about it—and with a sigh I took up the role of Sapphira.

"Almost immediately," I said, and I heard him give a sigh of relief.

"See that you do," he said. "And as you know, I can sleep in a car. You inherit that from me, I think. Good night till I see you, my darling."

The phone clicked upon the loving words of farewell so familiar to me, and I turned back to Mary and to Philip Veritzen.

"There is no need for you to stay away from your party any longer, Mary," I said. "Please say to your mother,"—I always speak in that way of Olga because I know the former queen likes the term—"that I would like to have her come over here as soon as she can, for what I have to say to your father, I want her to know as well."

"I'll tell her at once," Mary said.

Tells Philip Her Fears.

But when she had left, I did not wait for Olga's presence to tell Philip Veritzen of my fears. If anything were to be done about them, I knew it must be engineered quickly.

"I probably am imagining this," I told him, "but I believe somebody is watching this apartment from a room overlooking my balcony; somebody who means harm to me."

"Impossible!" he said. "You have only just arrived. You were not expected. were you? How could anybody know you were here?"

I put up my hand in protest.

"Please!" I said. "I can tell you the whole story later when Olga comes, but I cannot wait for her in this. I want it checked at once. Believe me, I am not asking this blindly. I have good reasons for the request. Will you help me?"

"Of course," he said. "Tell me at once what you wish me to do."

"Please wait just a half minute," I said. Sitting down at the desk, I then took a sheet of the Lansfield stationery and drew a quick, rough map of my balcony, and the windows opposite, marking with a cross the one behind which I was sure a sinister watcher lurked.

"I want you to find out for me who has that room," I said, thrusting the map into Philip's hands. "I want to know when be—or perhaps she—registered, and whether any inquiries were made by the person registering."

Viewre Club Elects Officers At Last Meeting

Mrs. Sherman Wentz will head the Viewre club when they resume their meetings in the fall following election held at the meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Welter, Millsboro road. Mrs. Grace Wilson will serve the club as secretary-treasurer. Miss Ruth McClellan, retiring president, conducted the business session.

Mrs. L. F. Rondell gave a paper on "Lace Making." Miss McClellan discussed "The Mausoleum erected by Artemisia at Halicarnassus." A dessert-luncheon was served at noon. Plans were discussed to hold a dinner meeting some time in June. Time and place will be announced later.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

EVEN THE BEST FAIL

WHEN ONE of the great rank and file of fair average players decides to bawl out his partner for discouraging his high card come-on signal, he is likely to bring the so-called experts into the conversation. How often have we heard social players say: "No expert would ever have done that." The simple fact of the matter is that sometimes they do. Always such a violation of signals by them is for what they consider a good reason, but they risk an even more strenuous upbraiding for the offense, if it costs a trick or so, than would happen at the average table.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 NT
Pass	3 NT

Here was a deal in the recent tournament for the national individual masters' championship in New York, on which refusal to follow a signal cost the side a bad score. Remember that in this type of game, with most of the play approaching perfection, a single trick gained or lost in the play may mean the difference between a favorable and an unfavorable result.

West led his heart 5 to the 9 and 10, and the diamond 2 was led to the Q and A. On the diamond 10, East played low, letting it win, West discarding his club 2. On the spade 2 to the A, West played his 9—an important card. The diamond 8 was led next to the K, and East had a chance now to obey the high spade signal. But he did not. He decided to return his heart Q, feeling that the purpose of the spade 9 was merely to indicate by West the location of his side entry. South took that heart trick and led the club K to West's A. It made no difference what he did now, as South thereafter took another heart trick, two clubs, two diamonds and a spade to make 5-odd.

If East had returned the spade after winning with his diamond K, West would have had a set-up spade trick when he finally won one with his club A, and could have cashed it to hold the declarer to 4-odd.

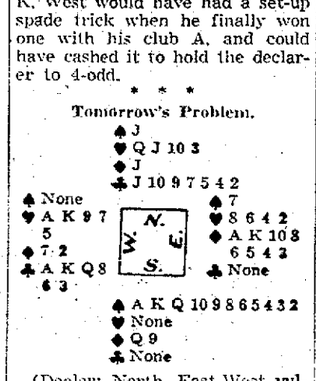
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable).

How many different ways can you think of bidding this crazy deal, with every bid a sound bid? If you discuss it with friends, don't use hatchets or axes during the arguments sure to ensue.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, May 24.

A rather routine state of affairs may be predicted for this day, judging by the weak transits of the ruling planets. There is some danger of trivial anxieties or problems due to subtle, covert, or treacherous acts of a very underhand nature. These while not being entirely portentous yet a decisive degree of wariness or drastic action in weeding out such duplicity would be profitable. The social, domestic or affectional relations are due to promote happiness, enjoyment and other personal advantages.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a rather pleasant year, with social, domestic and affectional or artistic interests claiming their energies rather than business, which may move in routine grooves. In all relations there is omen of danger through duplicity, perfidy, under cover or subtle methods inciting small worries, perplexities and mental confusion. With alertness to such intrigues and deceptions there should be a pleasant year.

A child born on this day may have many talents of a cultural nature, with music, poetry, literature and mysticism having strong appeal to its gentle soul.

Urges Study of Separate U. S. Air Force

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Legends of Broadway.

(No. 9—Doris Duke Cromwell)

THE city editor of a New York paper is a very busy fellow at 2 in the afternoon. Things happen at that hour on an afternoon sheet. Things that fight for headline billing in the next edition.

Dorothy Kilgallen

There was no World War at 2 that afternoon in 1936, but the city editor of the Journal was fretfully busy—too busy to talk to a press agent. Too busy, that is, until his desk man leaned over and said: "He's got a tip—he'll give it only to you—about Doris Duke Cromwell."

Magic name, that. Glamor. Mystery. A tall, thin, tight-lipped beauty with short, fair hair and long strides when she walked.

She was a girl made for newsprint—beautiful, cold to fame, silent.

You printed a story about her and every girl riding home on the subway read it and dreamed of gold, of ermine and limousines.

Before you could say "flash" the city editor was on the phone cooing to the press agent. Court scandals, murders, bank swindles—they could wait for Doris Duke Cromwell.

"Hello, hello," he sang. "Long time no see, pal What goes?" He groped for copy paper and pencil, scribbled furiously.

"Oh, ho!" he shouted. "Calm up now—promise? It's all mine? Okay, okay! I'll have him meet you in the back office of the club at 3 sharp. And remember, I owe you a drink when I catch up with you."

He leaned over to the desk man.

"This is a honey. Doris Duke wants to be a dancer! She's taking a lesson, a tap routine, from old Bill Robinson this afternoon at the Cotton club. Get two photographers up there right away. Have them cover both entrances to the joint—get her coming out. Tell them to get it without letting her get wise or they may spoil the whole thing.

"And get John McClain at Ship News—I think he knows her—and have him meet the press agent in the back office of the club."

John McClain, big and blond and pink-cheeked, and now the swain of Hollywood boulevard, hid behind the stage curtains at the Cotton club.

Bill Robinson and Jogo, the piano pounder, were sitting on the bandstand. "She be here any minute now," said Bojangles. "Don' you miss a beat, you hear? Ain't never you goin' git chance agin to play for sech a great lady."

Jogo stopped at a chord on the keyboard and he choked: "Bo! Dar she be!"

And there, standing timidly beside the deserted bar, was Doris with her maid.

Robinson bowed his way toward her. "It's goin' be easy, Mis' Cromwell. You do jest like I do, tha's all. I teached Shirley Temple when she was so li'l. It's goin' be so easy"

Jogo touched the keys, lightly. "Tea for two, tee-dump-tee-dum, and two for tea, tee-dump-tee-dum . . ." Heel and toe, heel and toe.

Not many minutes of that—and then:

"KA-CHOO-OO!" That was John McClain, reporter, sneezing at the wrong moment.

* * *

"Who dar?" yelled Bojangles

And John stepped from behind the curtain and said calmly, "Me. The electrician."

Doris peered up at him. As he came into the light she screamed: "John McClain!" and rushed out of the room toward the stairs.

McClain made for the opposite exit—with the story.

Well, it was a fine story The city editor loved it and the managing editor loved it, and the other papers must have loved it, too—because they all picked it up. And Darryl Zanuck, who held Bill's movie contract, loved it, and Harry Brand, Darryl's press agent, loved it because it gave him a bright idea.

Brand called Bojangles on the telephone and forwarded a contract, airmail. A contract, believe it or not, for Doris Duke—one that provided that if she entered the movies it would be under Darryl Zanuck's banner.

Bill had the contract delivered to Doris. The lessons were never continued, and the contract never was signed. But Doris Duke Cromwell still has it—momento of a dream.

OFFER TO DROP BITTERNESS IN TALKS AT FORD

UAW, Victorious In Election, Ready To Negotiate Wage Contract.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—The United Automobile Workers (CIO), victorious in bargaining elections in two Ford Motor company plants, offered today to "erase all bitterness" and negotiate a contract in a spirit of "genuine cooperative bargaining"

President R. J. Thomas of the union made this offer after UAW-CIO polled an average of about 70 per cent of 77,188 valid ballots cast in national labor board elections Wednesday at Ford's River Rouge and Lincoln plants.

Thomas announced the union would ask the company to start negotiations at once on a contract. It wants a general wage increase of 10 cents an hour, vacations with pay, seniority provisions, and "adequate" union recognition. The union will be certified by the labor board as bargaining agent for the 83,000 production and maintenance employes in the two plants

Official labor board results showed that the UAW-CIO polled 51,866 votes at the River Rouge plant to 20,364 for the new federally-chartered AFL union and 1,958 for neither. The count at Lincoln was 2,008 for the UAW-CIO, 587 for the AFL, and 146 for no union. The result of the election in the River Rouge pattern making department was in doubt.

The UAW-CIO polled 161 votes to the AFL's 90 and eight for neither union. Although the labor board certified only 271 workers as eligible to vote, 143 additional votes were challenged, a total sufficient to change the result if they were accepted

The UAW-CIO victory gave it bargaining rights in all of the automotive industry's "big three" Chrysler and General Motors have signed contracts for most of their plants.

Mansfield police departed from their regular role of crime prevention last night to help solve a domestic problem. They found a reported prowler near St. Peter's Catholic church to be nothing more than a bewildered man pacing back and forth on Weldon avenue The man told police that he had lost his job and was afraid to face his wife. After a short conference, the officers were able to persuade him to go home.

About 25 Post members have indicated they will be on duty for the affair to be held at Malabar Farms, home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bromfield.

Dr A O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent of Mansfield General hospital, found yesterday that lawnmowers cut equally well on either grass or fingers. The powered mower was not working well and Fonkalsrud decided that a little investigation of the machine might solve the matter. Somehow one of the mower blades and Fonkalsrud's right index finger became involved and the finger came out of the scrape minus a piece of flesh over the knuckle.

MERGING OF ARMY, NAVY UNITS SOUGHT

Senator Reynolds Favors Plan For Consolidation; Bill Sponsored By Clark.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Reynolds (D.-N. C.), chairman of the senate military affairs committee, today urged members of congress and the war and navy departments to study proposals for creation of a separate air force in the interest of national defense.

Reynolds, an expert on aviation, said that he looks upon long-standing proposals for consolidation of the army and navy air forces into one unit "with favor," but added that "I'm not now prepared to commit myself on the proposals."

He said, however, that "the subject should be given full and complete consideration by members of congress and our military experts in the army and navy."

"It would be a splendid idea for every member of congress, and the people throughout the country to study the subject in the interest of national defense," Reynolds said.

The senator proposed that congress obtain an opinion on a separate air force through consideration of a bill sponsored by Sen. Clark (D.-Mo.) to create a department of national defense.

In addition to transferring the duties of the army and navy departments to the department of national defense with undersecretaries of the army and navy, the measure would establish an air force as a separate branch of the national defense.

Clark said that regardless of the outcome of this bill, now before the senate naval affairs committee, he would support legislation for the creation of a separate air force.

"Regardless of the outcome of such a proposal," he said, "congress should certainly study it in view of the efficiency of the German air force, and the development of aviation in the past few years."

Clark said that he will request the naval affairs committee to begin consideration of his bill in the near future He said that the committee could obtain "a representative opinion" on creation of a separate air force if hearings were held.

FOUR DROWN AS BOAT GOES DOWN

Bottom Drops From Craft In Which Family Returns From Funeral.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—Four members of a Crown Hill, W. Va, family drowned last night when the boat in which they were returning from a funeral sank in the Kanawha river.

Dead were Cody Champe, 15; Charles Champe, 14; Juanita Champe, their sister, 9, and Mark McClelland, 26, a brother-in-law of the three.

B. J. Champe, 55; his wife, Ethel, 50, and two of their children, Mrs. Fay McClelland, 23, and Amick Champe, 12, were rescued.

The accident happened at Riverside, 12 miles south of Charleston. The party of eight was en route home from the funeral of a brother of B. J. Champe at Belle, W. Va., six miles north of Crown Hill.

Champe said the boat developed a leak and "the bottom seemed to drop out"

"I went under three times and then Fay grabbed me and held on to me and the wreckage of the boat," he added. "No one could swim except Fay and Amick."

George Smooth and his 13-year-old son, George Jr., and two other men on the shore were attracted by the screams of the floundering victims. They set out in two small boats and rescued the four clinging to the boat hulk. They were unable to reach the others.

POPPIES TO BRIGHTEN CITY'S STREETS; SALE ON TOMORROW

American Legion auxiliary poppies will brighten Mansfield streets Saturday as the organization launches its annual Poppy day sale to obtain funds for rehabilitation work among Mansfield veterans

"The sale of 12,000 poppies here this year means shoes, clothing, food and general utilities such as heat and light for disabled Mansfield veterans and their families," Mrs. S. T. Hawkins auxiliary president, said.

Funds received from the sale here will be used exclusively for local rehabilitation work, Mrs Hawkins explained, adding that 25 families is the average number aided the year around by the auxiliary.

Poppies to be sold locally were made by disabled veterans at the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors home who received one cent a poppy for their work. "This money," said Mrs. Hawkins, "is all that many of the men earn during the year."

Nine thousand poppies went on sale today in 17 Mansfield industries and unsold flowers will be added to the 3,000 set aside for sale by the Boy Scouts and Junior Auxiliary members, Saturday, Mrs. Frank Duff, poppy chairman, announced.

Reports of the sale in industries cooperating with the auxiliary by making poppies available to their employes will be made tonight at the Legion home

Scouts and Junior members will also receive their poppies tonight so that they can be on the streets in time to greet the first workers Saturday.

The Marine club has placed the largest order for poppies of any organization outside of industry, Mrs. Duff said. The club has reserved 100 flowers.

Auxiliary poppy and money checkers will be stationed at the Legion home Saturday to receive funds and reports and an auxiliary committee will also prepare lunch for the 80 young people acting as sellers.

War Relief Garden Party Ticket Sale Off on Big Start

With the ticket sale for the British War Relief Garden party at Malabar Farm on June 7 under way only since Wednesday morning, 443 of the 1,000 available tickets have already been sold.

This was announced today by Oliver C. Henkel, ticket sale chairman, who expressed gratification at the heavy early demand for tickets, and again warned all who plan to attend the event that they should make ticket reservations immediately, since no more than 1,000 will be sold.

Tickets are available in Mansfield at Tawse's pharmacy, the Bookshop, Shaw's store on Marion avenue, and The News-Journal.

Committee representatives in Mt. Vernon, Ashland, Galion, Shelby and Loudonville are also selling tickets.

Attractions at the garden party will include dancing, a flower show, Monte Carlo casino, Mala Bar (soft drink stand) and various other attractions.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—A bit of Robert Taylor's past is proving useful as the local opening date of "Billy the Kid" nears. It's that part of his history centered on Gower Gulch, the corner drugstore in Hollywood where the movie cowboys hang out between calls to work.

When Bob was Spangler Arlington Brugh, a too-handsome kid looking for a movie break, he lived near the Gulch and took his coffee and sinkers at the drugstore counter—often on the cuff. There's nobody with more time to kill than a would-be actor, and Bob killed some of his in gabbing with the corner boys.

ROBBIN COONS

In gratitude for the generous cuff of old, he still drives to the Gulch emporium when he has any large-scale drug-buying to do, like placing orders for Barbara Stanwyck's Christmas perfumes and such.

Well, M-G-M isn't sleeping on a tie-up like that. They're planning to invite Gower Gulch, the whole she-bang, to the opening This will give a sort of authoritative sanction to Bob's new venture as a "western" star, for the Gulch's verdict on a city slicker's turning two-gun-man is seldom kind, and if some of the cowhands will let drop an o.k. on Bob, it'll be to the good.

The o.k. (lest suspense upset you) will be forthcoming. I can't testify yet as to Bob's western qualifications, but "Billy the Kid" was in production four months, and a goodly portion of the Gulch's population got fairly steady work from it. Besides, which, to take a less cynical view, the folks that know Taylor usually like him.

As a star of "Manpower," Edward G. Robinson plays a foreman for an electric power company. The other night all the lights in the Robinsons' Beverly Hills home were off for three hours. The movie "foreman" tried out a new electrical gadget, blew a fuse.

Two Braves drew their walking papers yesterday, and Manager Alex Clowson now has to go through the unpleasant formality of releasing only two more players before Mansfield gets down to the Ohio State league limit of 15 by June 1.

Bruce Williams, who played right field for the tribe in the opening game with Lima, and Kenny Mills, who did a relief hurling turn of two frames against Findlay Tuesday night, were the sad young men turned adrift Wednesday.

Williams just didn't fit into the season's plans of the Mansfield club, and Mills in his previous baseball experience had tried to play too many positions to perfect himself in the moundsman's art.

"When I say I hate to do this, I really mean it," Clowson said in announcing the releases. "We've got the finest bunch of boys on this ball club that I've ever been connected with, and turning one loose is like showing the door to my grandmother.

"You'd think we had a bunch of high school or college boys in the bus on these trips we take. They sing all the way home—after we've won a game."

Adieu, adieu kind friends adieu, adieu, adieu.
I can no longer stay with you, ain't it true?
So I'll hang my glove on a whirling wampus tree,
And take my bat back home with me."

* * *

"You're the guys I'm after," said gray Grover Hartley to Clowson after the Braves edged the Oilers at Findlay Wednesday night.

"Why, what do you mean, Grover?" inquired young Alex who wasn't smart to the Hartley harangue.

"I mean you're the team to beat in this league," responded the veteran. "I'm not worried about Tiffin and Lima and the other clubs."

* * *

"Hey, Lightnin'," says Grover to the Mansfield ball boy Tuesday night. "What's that 4 on your back? Is that Little Joe?"

"Don't let him kid you, Lightnin'," shouted someone in the press coop.

"He don't bother me," drawled Lightnin,' "that don't make me no mind."

Night Softball Booked

All-Star Team Meets Massillon June 13.

MANSFIELD'S first night softball game of the season will be played at the Fairground Friday, June 13, with Massillon opposing an all-star team from the Class A Independent league, the Mansfield Softball commission announced today.

Members of the all-star aggregation will be selected by the fans in a contest to be conducted by The News-Journal and the softball commission. Ballots will be printed in the News-Journal in ample time for selection of the stellar lineup. The team manager also will be selected by popular vote.

Commission members said today they plan to stage night games at least once a week if fan interest warrants such a program, and that outstanding softball teams of the state will be brought here, with Massillon's Rogers Jewelers opening the season.

Efforts to organize a night softball league with surrounding cities fell through because of the lack of facilities in the other towns, it is understood.

A list of players eligible for the all-star team will appear in Sunday's News-Journal, and the deadline for votes has been placed for Friday night, June 6, by the commission.

The management of the Mansfield Braves has cooperated with the commission in making night softball possible.

Only the players on the following teams will be eligible for selection to the all-star team: Westinghouse, Yuncker Sports, B'nai, B'rith, Barnes Manufacturing Co., Smokehouse, and Safety Cab.

A squad of 15 players is to be selected, including three pitchers, two catchers, five infielders, one rover, and four outfielders.

Fremont Wins Four Straight

While Mansfield Braves and Tiffin were being rained out of their Ohio State league second place battle at the Fairground last night, those surprising Fremont Green Sox were chalking up their fourth straight victory, 8 to 4, over Fostoria.

The Sox climbed into a tie with Tiffin for third place, and are now only half a game behind the Braves.

Findlay's Oilers stretched the pace-setting margin over the Braves to a full game by handing Lima its sixth defeat in seven games, 7 to 1.

Tonight the Braves go to Tiffin, if weather permits, and Sunday will return home for their second series with Lima.

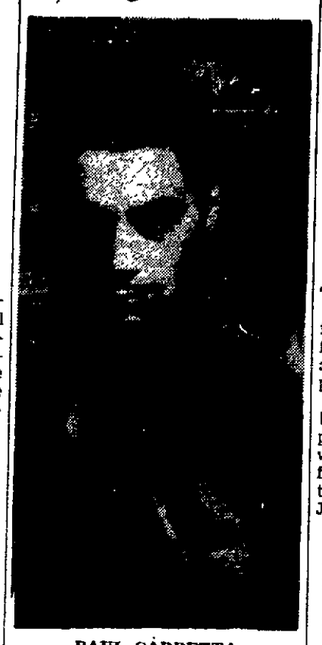
Turning Pro



PAUL CARBETTA

Having won the flyweight championship of the Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament and gone to the finals of the Chicago mid-west tourney, Mansfield's Paul Carbetta turns pro on the armory fight card next Thursday night, meeting Russ Brown of Cleveland in a five round bout at the bantamweight poundage.

Schoolboys Chase Titles

Classiest High School Athletes in Joust.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Fifteen hundred of Ohio's classiest high school athletes go after championships in four sports today in the annual two-day spring carnival at Ohio State university.

* * *

Contestants in all the events Baseball, track-field, golf and tennis—won their play to the finals by eliminating district rivals in earlier competition.

Columbus North, defending Class A baseball champion, picked a tough first round opponent in last night's draw and meets Cleveland Shaw at 9 a. m. Other games pit Alliance against Bridgeport, Greenfield against Miamisburg, and Lima against Cincinnati Withrow.

Meanwhile, eight Class B teams are vieing for the title left undefended when Powhatan Point, last year's ruler, lost out in district play. The schedule pairs Coldwater against Spencer, Smithfield against New Riegel, Beaver Creek against Mifflin and Reading against South Webster.

Defending track champions are Cleveland East Tech in Class A and O. S. & S. O. Home of Xenia in Class B.

* * *

A hot battle for golf honors is in prospect if qualifying scores are an indication. Defending champion Toledo Devilbiss turned in a 313 score, only seven strokes better than second place Hamilton. Don Shock of Dayton Fairmont, the individual champion, and Zoller of Hamilton Public both had one-over-par 73's in the qualifier.

JUNIOR BASEBALL TEAMS SCHEDULED

The following schedule for Saturday for Friendly House junior baseball teams at Tappan's field was announced today by Mike Wentz, athletic director: Giants vs Indians 9 a. m., Tigers vs. Reds 10 a. m.; Dodgers vs. Braves, 1 p. m.; Cards vs. Yankees, 2 p. m. These teams will play practice games for three Saturdays until the close of school, and will open their regular schedule.

MOUNTS WANT GAMES

The Mt. Gilead baseball club has organized and is under new management. They are now booking games for the season. Anyone wanting to play this team write to Eugene Dumbaugh, manager of the Mt. Gilead Baseball Club, 153 East Marion street, Mt. Gilead.

Pro Fight Show Set For May 29

Jones, Glover, and Paul Carbetta Booked on Show.

THE long heralded return of professional boxing to Mansfield is now definitely scheduled for next Thursday night at the armory, Matchmaker Sam Saprano announced today.

The card not only will bring back the punch-for-pay leather pushers to the Mansfield ring, it will bring back Mansfield's two foremost professional fighters of the moment, Dick "Honeyboy" Jones and Beauford Glover.

And it will mark the debut in professional ranks of Paul Carbetta, Cleveland Golden Gloves flyweight champion who'll be flashing that left hook at the bantam poundage.

* * *

Honeyboy Jones, Mansfield's foremost fisticuffer of the past half dozen years and more, comes out of six months of retirement to tangle with Frankie Williams, Akron university star, and veteran of Cleveland Golden Gloves wars.

They'll battle at 167 pounds over the 10-round route in the show's headliner.

On for the six-heat semi-final is Beauford Glover, Mansfield's lightweight champion of the Cleveland Golden Gloves of a year ago, now scrapping at 147 pounds, and meeting Tiger Jackson, hard hitting Akron veteran.

* * *

Carbetta goes for five stanzas against Russ Brown of Cleveland at 118 pounds.

Four preliminary bouts of four rounds each will complete the card, Saprano said.

Gus Captures Half-a-Title

Beats Christoforidis Before Half-a-House.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gus Lesnevich had half a hold on half a title today, obtained by a half-hearted victory before half a house last night at Madison Square Garden.

The sturdy Cliffside, N. J., fighter outpointed Anton Christoforidis of Greece, recognized by the N. B. A. as light-heavyweight champion in a battle of scrambled titles—and now needs only two items to make him undisputed king.

* * *

One is the admission of the N.B.A. that the fight was a legitimate title affair, a question brought up by the fact it was held outside N.B.A. territory, and the other is a victory this summer over Jimmy Webb. Should he defeat Webb he would be recognized as champion by the New York commission.

Lesnevich weighted 175, Christoforidis 166. There were no knockdowns.

Tribe Wins Seven, Loses Three In East

Indians Edge Washington 4 to 3, Come Home For First Night Tilt

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Any time the Indians come home from an eastern trip with a larger lead than when they left home, it's an occasion for talking of pennants and a world series.

The seaboard tours long have been the jinx of Cleveland teams, but Manager Roger Peckinpaugh's 1941 combination emerged from its first jaunt with seven victories and three defeats to stretch a 2½ game margin to three full games.

A 4 to 3 victory yesterday gave the Indians a sweep of the two-game Washington series after New York fell twice and Boston three times. All three setbacks came in Philadelphia.

Thus with the season just two games short of the first-quarter mark, the Indians pace Chicago by three games and New York, early favorite for the title, by 5½.

* * *

The Redskins will play their first game under the lights tonight against St. Louis in opening a five-day home stand. Al Milnar and Denny Galehouse will be the opposing pitchers.

A two-run rally in the ninth inning gave the Tribe its victory over Sid Hudson in Washington.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who paraded into the west last week pointing arrogantly to their record as 1940's leading road team in the National league and to their six victories in seven games away from home in the east this year, are slinking back to Flatbush today with a string of tin cans tied to their tails.

They're in the doghouse because of losing six straight at Pittsburgh, Chicago and finally St. Louis, where they handed over the circuit lead to the Cardinals.

However, the Dodgers may yet live down this debacle, and now is a good time to say a word in their defense.

For a few days the whole club was panicky. Everything went wrong and Manager Leo (Lippy) Durocher was as jittery as his players. He changed his batting order, his neckties and his diet daily. Yesterday he arrived at the conclusion many another manager had reached before him—to put his best lineup on the field and to stick to it win, lose or draw.

The Dodgers lost again, 7-6, but they showed they are not yet cowed. The Redbirds scored all their runs off Chubby Hugh Casey in the first five innings. Yet Brooklyn outhit the Redbirds, 13-11, and went down battling.

The Cincinnati Reds meanwhile took a 6-4 victory from the New York Giants. Ernie Lombardi hit a home run in the first inning with the bases loaded and Frank McCormick pounded his eighth of the season with one on in the third.

The two other National league games were rained out.

The Chicago White Sox held determinedly to second place in the American league by whacking the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1, behind the six-hit hurling of John Rigney.

Bob Muncrief and Jack Kramer combined in a five-hit hurling job for the St. Louis Browns, who beat the Boston Red Sox, 4-1.

This enabled the New York Yankees to advance into third place by capturing their third straight victory over Detroit, 6-5.

Oliver Steals Show

Corporal Finishes at Bottom, Draws Crowd.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Since he is hitting the ball beautifully and putting like a demon, Lawson Little, the National Open golf champion, by rights should be the leading character in this story, just as he is the leading player going into today's second round of the Goodall round-robin tournament.

But just to be contrary, this will be devoted to Acting Corporal Edward Oliver of Fort Dix, N. J. Corporal Oliver is a rotund, moon-faced individual with crisp, curly hair, a boyish grin and a genial manner that makes him the best advertisement the U. S. army ever could have put on a golf course.

They cast Acting Corporal Oliver in the main match of yesterday's opening round of this four-day circus at the Fresh Meadow Country club. From a golfing standpoint he didn't do so well, finishing at the bottom of the list for the day with a score of minus 9 to Little's first-place plus 10.

But there wasn't a more popular figure on the course than Acting Corporal Oliver. It was a fine thing for his commanding officer to give Oliver four days' leave to play in this tournament. It would be even finer if that commanding officer would countermand his previous order and also permit Oliver to play in the National Open championship next month at Fort Worth, Tex.

Little's 68 in the first round was a fine demonstration of accurate power hitting and smooth putting. The open champ was so well pleased, in fact, that he wants nothing more than to play equally well at Fort Worth.

* * *

Even with his plus 10 score, though, there still are six rounds to go. In the chief contending positions at the moment are Horton Smith and Jimmy Hines, plus 5; Ben Hogan and Tony Penna, plus 3; Vic Ghezzi, plus 2; and Jug McSpaden, plus 1.

Ohio Golfers Aim at Open

63 Swingers Take Cut In Two Qualifiers.

(By Associated Press)

Sixty-three crack golfers today began a week-end of sharp-shooting over Ohio layouts in preparation for Monday's qualifying tests for the 1941 National Open tournament.

The state has been allotted seven place in the June 5-7 field, with five entries to come from the Cleveland district tourney at Congress Lake Country club in Hartville, Stark county, and two from the Cincinnati test at the Losantiville course.

* * *

Two Ohioans—Byron Nelson of Toledo and Billy Burke of Cleveland—are exempt from the 36-hole qualifiers because of winning previous titles. Nelson took the crown in 1939 and Burke in 1931.

Eleven amateurs and 36 professionals will tour the 6,431-yard, par 71 Congress Lake layout.

The Cincinnati field was reduced to 16, including 11 pros, by the withdrawal of Johnny Fischer, former national amateur champion. He injured his wrist in playing several weeks ago.

The pairings (A-denotes amateur) included:

Congress Lake.

Babe Wagner, Alliance, and George Howard, Canton.

William Boehm (A), Alliance, and Andrew Velican, Warren.

Will Simpson, Cleveland, and Ralph J. Doll (A), Canton.

B. T. Neal (A), Columbus, and Andrew Patrick, Zanesville.

Dale Boyd, Massillon, and Jack Thompson, Youngstown.

Edward Garfield, Cleveland, and Wallace Bower (A), Elyria.

Harold C. Mizer, Zanesville, and Clark Black, Elyria.

Frank Metzger, Cuyahoga Falls, and Gus Peterson (A), Alliance.

George J. Brady (A), Akron, and Carl Bindbeutel, Elyria.

Jack Gray, Ashland, and Frank J. Castelberg, Canton.

Joe Plans Two Fights, Then Life In Army.

By GAYLE TALBOT

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Before a somewhat distinguished Capital audience tonight, Joe Louis will play another stop on his "farewell tour" of the heavyweight circuit before he puts away the five-ounce gloves and has himself fitted for an army uniform.

* * *

After tonight's bout with Buddy Baer, which will mark the 17th defense of his title, the negro heavyweight champion plans to fight about twice more this summer and then see if he can't rustle himself a commission. He has gained the consent of his managers and plainly is looking forward to his "vacation" from the grind.

* * *

The glow of the fight game has faded for Joe. As he sat in another hot basement room yesterday prior to another of the unending rub-downs, he didn't seem to want to talk about tonight's fight. He wanted to talk baseball, or to discuss his next fight with Billy Conn at New York on June 18, as though he could hasten the day.

"It will be good for him to get away for a year," said Co-Manager Julian Black.

"He's decided if his number doesn't come up by fall he'll join up anyway. He'll get a big kick out of it and feel better. I imagine they would want him in the physical training, something like Gene Tunney. He could study up for a commission."

Clearly, Joe has no doubt that he will dispose of Baer tonight, clip Conn next month and then knock over either Abe Simon or Lou Nova before looking up a recruiting officer.

"That way he could go in the army feeling like he had whipped everybody," said Black.

* * *

Tonight's crowd promised to be large and noisy. Promoter Mike Jacobs, having watched the advance sale for some days, forecast a total gate of $125,000, which would be terrific for Washington. Several cabinet members and a bevy of senators and such will be at the ringside.

Hapless Brewers Bounced Again

(By Associated Press)

Apparently everything happens to baseball teams which are "down"—and it has happened again to the hapless Milwaukee Brewers.

* * *

The Milwaukee club started the American Association season impressively, bagging four of its first five home games. Since then, however, it's been another and much sadder story for Brewer fans. The club has lost every series since May 7.

Wednesday, the team was beaten 11 to 0 by St. Paul on a two-hit pitching job and last night the Brewers took it on the chin again, bowing to the slugging Minneapolis club 13 to 7.

The league leading Kansas City club got seven runs in the first inning and then squeezed out an 8 to 6 victory over St. Paul. Bill Rutland, big Louisville hurler, pitched seven hit ball to lead the Colonels to a 4 to 2 victory over the Toledo Mudhens. Louisville collected 12 hits off two Hen twirlers. Wet grounds forced postponement of the Indianapolis - Columbus game.

PLYMOUTH CLUB TO MEET WEST SALEM

The Plymouth Locomotives, semi-pro baseball club, will open their season at West Salem, Sunday, playing the West Salem Merchants in a double header at 1 p. m.

THEATERS

American Cross-Section.

In his adventures into the gallery of human nature, Frank Capra has added another picture of American life and times which is indelibly stamped on the minds of the movie-going public as "You Can't Take It With You," and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." It is "Meet John Doe," the Gary Cooper-Barbara Stanwyck starring vehicle opening at the Ohio Saturday. John Doe, the essence of anonymity throughout the years, is the hero in whom is embodied all of the characteristics of the man in the street—the average American citizen. The picture presents a cross-section of American life and the two stars are supported by Edward Arnold, Walter Brennan, Spring Byington and James Gleason.

Sales Comedy-Drama.

Jean Arthur's latest starring vehicle, "The Devil and Miss Jones," opening Saturday at the Madison gives her the role of a crisp clerk in a modern department store in which the employes are secretly engaged in an attempt to organize into a bargaining unit in the hope of forcing the employers to redress their wrongs. As "Mary Jones," Jean loves her job but loves her boy friend more. Robert Cummings plays the sweetheart discharged from work because of union activities. Charles Coburn is in the cast. "The Cowboy and the Blonde," is the second attraction.

Colorful Drama.

"The Son of Monte Cristo," opening today at the Ritz co-stars Louis Hayward with Joan Bennett. A colorful drama filled with adventure the picture is supplemented by "The Wyoming Wildcat," with Don "Red" Berry and Julie Duncan.

Death-Defying Picture.

More than a million feet of film, never before seen on any screen and representing 27 years of death-defying effort were scanned by Osa Johnson before she choose the material for "I Married Adventure," sensational film record of her travels now showing at the Park. The picture includes remarkable shots of Africa's teeming game, gorillas at close range, charging rhinos, weird birds and battles between jungle beasts. Natural scenic grandeur combined with authentic thrills make the production unique in the annals of screen history. Kay Francis and Jack Oakie top the cast in "Little Men," the second picture.

Political Thriller.

Presenting a strong plea for political reform, "The Big Boss," opening at the Majestic today presents John Litel in the role of governor out to break up the chain gang practice in his state. He has blonde Gloria Dickson as a political reporter on his side and together they fight the racketeer who practically runs the prison chain gang to suit himself. Otto Kruger plays the racketeer. Wild Bill Hickok brings his guns into action when outlaws take over a western frontier in "North From the Lone Star State," Film No. 2.

Learning Found Not To Break Superstitions

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(U.P.)—Public school education has failed to root out superstitious beliefs among students, it was indicated in results of a study made at Pennsylvania State college.

The study, made by Ray A. Kurtz, under supervision of Dr. C. C. Peters, director of educational research, compared the knowledge of 52 adult farmers with that of 56 future farmers enrolled in agricultural schools.

"In 22 questions based on superstition, agricultural students' answers were wrong just as often as those of the farmers," Kurtz said. "Of all the questions in the test, nine of the 15 most frequently missed were based on superstition."

A common superstition which two-thirds of both groups said they adhere to was fish and ice cream should not be eaten together. Another fallacy still believed by the students was that strong drink makes a person warm. Farmers were more skeptical on that point, however.

Increase Seen In Wild Ducks By Next Fall

ST. LOUIS — (U.P.) — American hunters can look forward to a fall season offering approximately 14,000,000 more ducks than the estimated 71,000,000 last year, according to Tom C. Main, Canadian manager of Ducks Unlimited.

Main told members of the Mississippi Valley region of Ducks Unlimited that he expected about 85,000,000 birds to go south next fall.

He said he expected continuous increases in the number of birds if "they only are given a chance to reproduce." Main held that closed seasons were not necessary to increase the number of ducks."

"Drouth is our biggest enemy," he asserted. "If we can preserve the breeding grounds the crops will increase." He estimated that drouth last year caused the death of 22,000,000 ducks.

PAM—To the Hospital.

By A. W. Brewerton

THE POOR COLONEL! GLAD WE WERE ABLE TO GET A DOCTOR SO QUICKLY!- WONDER WHAT HE'LL-
5-23
OH! WHAT DOES HE SAY ABOUT THE COLONEL, JEFF?
IT'S THAT SLOW HE GOT ON THE HEAD! MUST HAVE BEEN MUCH MORE SERIOUS THAN HE LET ON!
--MAY BE BRAIN CONCUSSION! THE DOCTOR'S PHONING FOR AN AMBULANCE - GOING TO RUSH HIM TO A HOSPITAL - HAVE TO X-RAY AT ONCE!
OH, DEAR, I'M GOING WITH HIM!
ME, TOO!
PAM, I'VE BEEN A BRUTE EXPOSING YOU AND HIM TO DANGER THE WAY I HAVE! IF THE COLONEL IS SERIOUSLY HURT, I'LL NEVER FORGIVE MYSELF!

THE NEBBS—Not on Your Life.

By Sol Hess

RUDY IS MUCH CONCERNED ABOUT THE INTEREST THE MAYOR IS TAKING IN GENTRY, THE MANUFACTURER.
5-23
I UNDERSTAND YOU CALLED A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE COUNCIL - WHAT'S THE GREAT EVENT?
WELL, MR. GENTRY WANTS THE CITY TO MAKE SOME FINANCIAL DONATION TO ENCOURAGE HIM TO BRING HIS FACTORY HERE
GOING TO PAY HIM TO COME HERE? I BUILT THIS TOWN UP- BUILT A HOTEL - GOT A POWER PILL FACTORY- INFLUENCED THE MOVIE COMPANY TO COME HERE. I NEVER GOT A PLUGGED YEN FROM THIS BURG AND THERE ISN'T ANYBODY ELSE WILL GET A CENT EITHER!!
I'M MAYOR OF THIS TOWN AND I'M GOING TO BUILD IT UP AND I'M NOT GOING TO LET YOU OR ANYBODY ELSE BE A BRAKE ON IT'S PROGRESS - EVER SINCE I'VE KNOWN YOU YOU HAVE BEEN STICKING YOUR TONGUE OUT AT OPPORTUNITY!

SAN FRANCISCO —(U.P.)— The divorce of Mrs. Adelaide Harlan from Marion E. Harlan, advertising man, is believed to have established a speed record in local courts.

In less than a minute, Mrs. Harlan testified her husband had precipitated their separation and was opposed to reconciliation. In one more minute, Superior Judge Deasy had approved a property settlement and granted the decree.

RAILS EDGE UP, SELLING DROPS ON MART TODAY

Standard Oil, Anaconda Join Recovery Trend; Buyers Await Crete News.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A few rails edged upward in today's stock market and selling slackened in most other departments.

Early recovery tendencies were exhibited by Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda, General Electric and Du Pont.

Backward at times were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Kennecott, and American Telephone.

Commodities were uneven.

Many customers who felt bullish on the industrial outlook, brokers said, inclined to withhold commitments pending outcome of the Battle of Crete.

REPORTS FRANCE TO KEEP FLEET

Darlan Tells Nation Hitler Did Not Ask For Any Colonial Lands.

"Follow the marshal (Petain), and aid him with all your force, as I am doing, in his work of national restoration. Like him, like me, in your thoughts be inspired only by the interests of France."

Darlan outlined the nature of his conversations with Hitler in a series of clipped sentences at the beginning of his five-minute speech:

"At no moment in the conversation was there a question of France abandoning in any way her sovereignty.

"France freely is choosing the road which she is taking.

"On her depends her present and her future.

"She will have the peace which she makes herself.

"She will have the place in the organization of Europe which she will have made for herself."

ect, asserting that the pickup in industry should provide jobs for most of the people employed on it.

In letters to Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, state WPA officials said "the cooperation of the city would be greatly appreciated" and added that the attitude of the commissioners in voting out the project was "regrettable for the reason that it will be necessary to care for the people now in some other manner."

The state has been matching county funds to sponsor the project and the federal government has paid the $3,500 monthly payroll.
